WILSON ACCEPTS MEDIATION OF THREE SOUTH AMERICAN COUNTRIES IF PEACE CAN BE ARRANGED WITH HONOR TO U. S.

NOT HOPEFUL BUT EAGER FOR SUCCESS OF KINDLY INTERVENTION OF SOUTH

WASHINGTON, April 25.—At the conclusion of a conference with the diplomatic representatives of Brazil, Argentina and Chile, which ended at 7 o'clock tonight, the administration agreed to accept "any proper plan of arbitration" which these governments can induce Mexico to agree to, whereby an honorable peaceful settlement of the matters in dispute can be reached.

The acceptance, however, is coupled with a statement that some act of aggression on the part of those who control the military forces of Mexico might force this government to withdraw this acceptance and assume the offensive. But in the meantime it is agreed that anything which the three South American republics are able to do will be co-operated in by this government.

President Wilson, following a long conference with Secretary Bryan and afterward with the leaders of the foreign relations committee of congress, made public the following correspondence:

"Legation of the Argentine Republic, Washington, April 25, 1914.

"Mr. Secretary of State:

"With the purpose of subserving the interests of peace and civilization in our continent and with the earnest desire to prevent any further bloodshed to the prejudice of the cordiality and union which have always surrounded the relations of the governments and peoples of America, we, the plenipotentiaries of Brazil, Argentina and Chile, duly authorized thereto, have the honor to tender to your excellency's government our good offices for the peaceful and friendly settlement of the conflict between the United States and Mexico.

"This offer puts in due form the suggestions which we had the occasion to offer heretofore on the subject to the secretary, to whom we renew the assurance of our highest and most distinguished consideration.

(Signed)

"D. DAGAMA.
"E. S. NAON,
"EDO SUAREZ MUJICA."

To this message Wilson, through Secretary Bryan, sent the following reply:

"The government of the United States is deeply sensible of the friendliness, the good feeling, and the generous concern for the peace and welfare of America manifested in the joint note just received from your excellencies tendering the good offices of your government, to effect, if possible, a settlement of the present difficulties between the government of the United States and those who now claim to represent our sister republics in Mexico. Conscious of the purpose with which the proffer is made, this government does not feel at liberty to decline it. Its own chief interest is in the peace of America, the cordial intercourse of her republics and her people, and the happiness and prosperity which can spring only out of frank, mutual understanding, and the friendship which is created by common purpose.

"The generous offer of your government is therefore accepted.

"This government hopes most earnestly that you may find those who speak for the several elements of the Mexican people willing and ready to discuss terms of satisfactory, and therefore permanent settlement. If you should find them willing, this government will be glad to take up with you for discussion in the frankest and most conciliatory spirit any proposals that may be authoritatively formulated and will hope that they may prove feasible and prophetic of a new day of mutual co-operation and confidence in America.

"This government feels bound in candor to say that its diplomatic relations with Mexico being for the present severed, it is not possible for it to make sure of an uninterrupted opportunity to carry out the plan of intermediation which you propose. It is, of course, possible that some act of aggression on part of those who control the military forces of Mexico might oblige the United States to act to the upsetting of the hopes of immediate peace, but this does not justify us in hesitating to accept your generous suggestion. We shall hope for the best result within a time brief enough to relieve our anxiety lest ill-considered hostile demonstrations should interrupt negotiations and disappoint our hopes of peace."

The tone of the president's statement accepting the offer cannot be regarded as hopeful. Rather it is the language of a man devoutly wishing for that which he is convinced is impossible. But his "enthusiasm for peace" would not permit him to overlook a single chance, however remote, to prevent the slaughter of a war which both combatants and the world in general regard as already launched.

In addition, it is suggested that in the negotiations which will ensue the president saw a possibility that by thus temporizing the administration might secure relief for Americans in the interior news of whose slaughter has been hourly expected. Official Washington does not regard the meditation plan with any degree of optimism.

Bryan Brings Message
The offer to mediate was conveyed to the president through Secretary of State Bryan by the ambassadors of the republics early today, and a conference was held early this afternoon.

Following this conference, it was said at one of the embassies that President Wilson, while wishing that such a thing might be, had said that no settlement which did not provide for reparation by Huerta could be considered. His attitude, regretfully was that "the die was cast."

The South American nations, however, expressed kindly feelings for both belligerents, and at a second conference this evening the agreement was reached.

PRESIDENT CAN NOW CALL UPON MILITIA AT WILL

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Wilson at 5:30 this afternoon, signed the Army Volunteer bill. The immediate effect of this new law will be to make available for active service the entire national guard of the United States. Under it the guard can be received en bloc into service of the United States and may be sent beyond the borders of the United States for war with a foreign enemy.

JOHN KABATZ IN COAST ARTILLERY

Another La Crosse man is due to see active service in Mexico shortly. John Kabatz, a bartender at the Empire saloon, today enlisted in the coast artillery and has been assigned to duty at Galveston, Texas. Recruiting Officer Joseph Evans today predicted that the Galveston artillery will probably be ordered over the line within a week. Kabatz will leave for Galveston Monday. Friends are planning on holding a farewell celebration before his departure.

CABINET HEADS MEET

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Wilson, Secretary of State Bryan and Postmaster General Burleson held an extended conference this afternoon. After half an hour, Secretary Tumulty was summoned, and a few minutes later Rear Admiral Blue, head of the navy bureau of operations.

BALLOON SCOUT VOLUNTEERS

TYLOR, Texas, April 25.—The first balloon scout of the present war volunteered his service to the government today, including his new war balloon, which arrived last night. Captain C. B. Bretel, an enthusiastic air navigator, made the offer.

DENY ESENADA RIOTING

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 25.—The steamer Victoria arrived today from Ensenada. The crew denies that there was rioting there and says all Americans are safe. They assert that the American consul became unduly excited.

HUERTA PUBLISHES TALES OF VICTORIES

LONDON, April 25.—Dispatches from Mexico City published in the Daily Telegraph today are enlightening us to the sort of "information" that is being given out by Huerta in his capital. The dispatches say that several Texas cities, including Brownsville, have been taken by Mexican troops; that the rebel Villa has joined Gen. Velasco of the federal army, and that the two at the head of 50,000 men are ready to march to the border.

REPORTED HUERTA IS HOLDING AMERICANS AS RETALIATION ACT

TODAY'S WAR DEVELOPMENTS
Executions of American refugees reported; unconfirmed. Wholesale arrests of Americans in Mexico City and other places; held as hostages. Anti-American demonstrations and reign of terror in Mexico City. Rebels attacking Tampico. Villa will not unite with Huerta, is report. Civil authorities won't help United States in Vera Cruz. Refugee ship due at Galveston. New marine recruiting offices to be opened.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The British embassy today received reports confirmatory of the story which American officials at Vera Cruz had heard, that Huerta was preventing Americans from leaving Mexico City. The most hopeful view of the situation is that the dictator is under the impression that the Americans are preventing Mexicans from leaving Vera Cruz, and that Huerta contemplated no violence excepting as retaliation for the slaying of Mexicans in Vera Cruz by the Americans. That so optimistic a view is without much justification is the general feeling of officialdom, but every effort is being made by this government to convince Huerta that Mexicans in Vera Cruz are free to go as they please, but that there are no facilities for transportation. This word was sent out by the train that met O'Shaughnessy yesterday. One hundred and twenty-five American men, women and children were taken from a train between Yripata and San Juan del Rio, according to official state department advices this afternoon. They were left on the ground there, despite their appeals to be allowed to continue on Guanajuato. Admiral Howard today reported to the navy department that there was an anti-American demonstration in front of the consulate at Mazatlan last night. The mayor of the city has made all possible reparation, however, including the posting of a guard of federal soldiers about the consulate. The German consul at that port is extending his friendly offices to obtain the steamer Sidney for removing all foreigners.

WASHOUT DELAYS TRAIN

Train No. 32 on the Reno-Preston line of the Milwaukee due here at 5:50, was delayed five hours yesterday afternoon by a small washout near Freeburg, Minn. The train arrived here at ten o'clock, five hours late.

Stryker officiating. B. H. Voltz, John Matine, George Seitz, Charles Goethe, Joseph Schneeberger and Michael Fuchs acted as pallbearers. Interment took place in the Catholic cemetery.

SOPHS BEAT SENIORS

A second baseball game played between the Seniors and Sophomores at the high school resulted in a 5 to 0 victory for the sophs today. Each team made four errors. The seniors made only two clean hits and the sophomores made seven. This game, which was the fifth in the class series, places the sophomores at the head of the league with a percentage of 1.000.

BADGER BASEBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHT

MADISON, Wis., April 25.—Pen-nant hopes ran wild today on the campus following Wisconsin's victory over Indiana, 3 to 1 in the opening game of the conference season. The sensational hurling of "Lefty" Neuenchwander and his timely hitting coupled with Jewett's bingle in the eighth and wretched fielding on the part of Minton, the Hoosier's center fielder, were responsible for the Badger win.

Neuenchwander pitched great ball in spite of the chill weather. He struck out eleven opponents and allowed but six scattered hits. He was easily superior to Schultz, the best pitcher in the "Big Nine" last year. The game was full of thrills. Boulware, Wisconsin's right fielder, at one juncture dashed over the foul line and scooped up a long hit with one hand. Anderson, the visitor's left fielder, duplicated the feat on a fair ball later in the game. Hoppert was king at the bat with three hits.

GOVERNOR AT BALL

MADISON, Wis., April 25.—Governor F. E. McGovern and Adjutant General Orlando Holway will attend the military ball given by the university battalion at the armory to-night. Strict military form will prevail during the evening, and both reveille and retreat will be accompanied by a battery of eight guns. Permission was given by the chief of police.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Elves Discover the Game of Marbles

"Have you marbles?" they asked.

JACK and Evelyn had been getting out their marbles for the season. When daddy came in he saw them all in a big box on the table.

"Have you commenced your games yet?" he asked.

"No, we haven't," replied the children. "But we're going to tomorrow. We've got them out, all ready for many, many games. We will play our first game tomorrow afternoon."

"That's fine!" said daddy. "But the elves have beaten you out, for they had their first game several days ago."

"The elves?" said Evelyn. "Do they play marbles? How did they happen to think of playing marbles?"

"You see, it was this way," daddy continued—"the elves, as you know, have just quantities of games that little boys and girls never even dream of playing. But sometimes the elves think it would be fun to play a game that is a special favorite with little boys and girls."

"One day two little elves were flitting about near the village, off the woods where they lived most of the time. They suddenly spied a lot of little boys playing a game with little round things made of glass."

"What are they, I wonder?" said the first elf.

"I haven't the remotest idea," said the second elf.

"At that moment a little boy exclaimed to another, 'You've won, and you'll get most of the marbles.'"

"Marbles, marbles!" said the first elf. "Those funny round things must be called marbles!"

"That's certainly what they must be," said the second elf. "Let's go some and take them home to the other elves, and we can have a brand new game. I watched them playing, and I am sure I understand the game perfectly, so I can explain it to the other elves. You understand it, too, don't you?"

"Oh, yes," said the second elf.

"So together they went to a little shop. It was the only shop the elves ever went to, and that was because it was kept by a funny, mysterious old man, and it was near the woods."

"Have you marbles?" they asked the old man.

"Dear me, so you think you would like to play the beloved spring game of little boys and very often little girls? Well, here's a fine collection for you of all colors and for all the elves," he replied.

"The little elves thanked the old man and went home to the Silver Stream, where they lived. Then they told all the other elves of the new game, and the elves thought it was a wonderful discovery."

Short Story

SOMEONE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Their eyes met, Jane's and those of the gentleman who walked down the aisle beside the superintendent. After she had passed Jane waited an instant, then turned, and after he had passed, the gentleman hesitated a moment—and turned. Their eyes met again.

And that was all. The remainder of the morning Jane sold books, made out slips and gave change, but at 12 o'clock she could not have told you just what she had been doing.

The days that followed were long ones for the novice in the book department. There were so many minutes to think. She wished they had put her anywhere else almost than where she was, for girls in other departments seemed to have little enough time to spare. It was likely that her knowledge of books and thorough education had something to do with it, and with the family almost depending on her now she had had to take the first thing that offered.

Then one morning the same gentleman came to buy a book. It took him a great while to select it. Several he gravely inspected upside down. Jane watched him quietly with amused eyes that became, however, shyly confused the instant he looked at her. And her cheeks were very rosy.

He finally picked up a "First Aid to Young Mothers," said he would take it, watched the color come and go in Jane's pretty cheeks as she went through the maneuvers attending the exchange of merchandise for the coin of the realm, and finally bade her "Good morning" and left the store.

And that was all for a long, long time.

She had a very comfortable raise in her salary—a very surprising thing for a beginner. And after that it was so much easier at home. If she could keep things going for a year or two both boys would be out of school and able to take care of themselves.

Another thing that happened was merely a bit of information that came her way. The "gentleman" was Mr. Cyril Lowbridge.

After Jane heard that her eyes lost a certain expectant look, and her cheeks no longer flushed at the memory of a day. For the Lowbridges were not only the oldest and richest family in the city, but almost of the nation. They owned as many companies of different kinds as most people do of teaspoons, the store being one of them. And at the same time she read that Cyril Lowbridge and his sister had gone to Europe.

A year passed. Jane had become very beautiful, and her mother looked with approval upon the attentions of Gerald Armour, a young man who had already made a mark in the world of engineering. Jane liked him too, and knew Gerald loved her.

Then one Sunday in the spring, as they walked through a violet strewn valley, Gerald told her all about it, and Jane feeling sure that her extreme liking for him must be love, turned impulsively to answer. Then, suddenly, she shut her eyes for an instant. She saw a man turn as she turned, and the memory of that glance almost stopped her heart.

She shook her head slowly. "Don't, Gerald. I am sorry, but I do not love you." And later upon his anxious, heart-broken questioning, "Yes; there is some one."

Another year passed. The boys were out of school and doing well. Jane had steadily "gone up" at the store until she held a position of great responsibility.

The name Cyril Lowbridge was almost a myth to her now. Occasionally she heard of him and his sister as they roamed over the world.

Gerald Armour had married. It was spring again, and Jane seemed quite happy and contented with life. Melvin Gray was with her as much as Jane would allow. He was very much in love with her, as any one could see with half an eye.

Jane, knowing the symptoms and feeling that the time was short in which she must make up her mind, took herself to account. She hadn't loved Gerald, that was true—but the other? It was all so long ago and so perfectly foolish and unreasonable. Anything so wild and unfounded could not be love. Surely this feeling she had for Melvin was the real love, the right kind, the wholesome kind that would last. Yes, when he asked her she would tell him she loved him and would marry him.

When Melvin did tell her, and Jane had "Yes" on her lips, there flashed across her brain the vision of a man turning and looking into her eyes.

Then to his dismay, she sadly shook her head and drew away her hand. "Melvin, I—I can't. There is—some one."

And another year passed. One showery night in the spring Jane waited for a street car. A line of automobiles passed between herself and the track, and at last was halted by the corner policeman on account of cross traffic.

A magnificent limousine stopped directly in front of her, so close that she had to step back to avoid the wheel. It had only one occupant beside the chauffeur—a man. He turned and saw Jane.

Instantly she recognized him, and as their glances met through the glass, each noticed the light that sprang into the other's eyes. Jane's heart pounded all her blood up into

SPIRITED REPLY FROM "TOM" MORRIS

Signer of Call for Special Session Says Right of Petition Is Fundamental to Government

DOUBTS M'GOVERN'S POLITICS

Points Out That He Masqueraded as a Republican and Turned Bull Moose at Chicago

Criticism by Gov. McGovern of the four state officers who presented him a petition asking the calling of a special session of the legislature to reduce taxes brought a spirited reply from Lieutenant Gov. Thomas Morris here today. He says that the right of petition is fundamental in government. He also questions the governor's republicanism.

"I merely want to say that it is to be regretted that the governor has displayed temper in passing upon the petition for a special session of the legislature," said Mr. Morris. "It was to be hoped that he would consider the matter calmly, dispassionately, without regard to who the petitioners were, and certainly without political considerations. Now that he has taken occasion to chastise the men who signed the petition, it might be well for him to remember that our bill of rights guarantees to the humble citizen the right to what was done. What he seems to regard as 'lese majesty' was in fact nothing more nor less than the exercise of the right plainly guaranteed by the constitution to all men alike."

Is He Republican?

"It will be remembered that the governor joined forces with Roosevelt at Chicago, notwithstanding he ran and was elected a La Follette delegate, and that he was commissioned by the republicans of the state to support Senator La Follette's candidacy for president; and that he afterwards waited until he had been safely nominated for governor, in the republican primaries, before announcing his disaffection to the republican party and avowing his allegiance with the Bull Moose. It will also be remembered that he undertook to remove Mr. Eklund, one of the big insurance commissioners of the country, without justifiable cause or excuse as the supreme court subsequently held, after Mr. Eklund, as the evidence in the senate investigation disclosed, refused to follow him and desert La Follette for Roosevelt. Again, among the many other things that have never been satisfactorily explained, he refused to attend the republican dinner at Madison, given during the last session of the legislature, for the purpose of promoting progressive republican principles and policies in the state and in the nation."

ECZEMA SPREAD ALL OVER BODY

Began on Cheeks With Pimples. Itched Badly. Caused Disfigurement. Had to Put Mittens on Him. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Eczema Left Him.

Roxbury, Ohio.—"When my little boy was two weeks old he began breaking out on his cheeks. The eczema began just with pimples and they seemed to itch so badly he would scratch his face and cause a matter to run. Wherever that matter would touch, it would cause another pimple until it spread all over his body. It caused disfigurement while it lasted. He had fifteen places on one arm and his head had several. The deepest places on his cheeks were as large as a silver dollar on each side. He was so restless at night we had to put mittens on him to keep him from scratching them with his finger nails. He could not sleep because I put those mittens on which would not allow him to scratch and then he would wake up and be cross. If he got a little too warm at night it seemed to hurt badly."

"We tried a treatment and he didn't get any better. He had the eczema about three weeks when we began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed him at night with the Cuticura Soap and spread the Cuticura Ointment on and the eczema left." (Signed) Mrs. John White, Mar. 19, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexioned, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

PURE SOAP

REALLY now, have you ever given any serious thought as to the purity of the soap you use? Have you not simply bought most anything called soap? From my experience in selling soaps for the past thirty years I am convinced that the purity of the soaps we use for toilet—yes, and for household use—has not had enough consideration. It is a well known fact that near every large city are plants known as "fertilizing plants." They obtain from the city all dead horses, dogs, cats and other animals, as well as butchers' refuse of all kinds, from which the fat is stewed and sold to soap makers for "stock." From this "stock," in combination with an alkali, soda or potash, some soaps are made.

Dr. L. D. Buckley, physician for skin diseases at the New York Hospital, says in the Sanitarian: "I believe many skin diseases are originated and others indefinitely kept up by the use of soaps made from impure fats." Erasmus Wilson writes: "If one were in quest of an insidious, slow means of ruining people's skin, he would need to go no further than impure soaps; in these detergent agents we have an unmitigated evil to the health, tone and beauty of the skin." Don't you think 'tis time for you to do some strong thinking about soap?

With these facts in mind, I have put upon the market the CREAM CERATE SOAP. It is pure and wholesome. I am confident it will stand the most rigid test as to purity and medicinal virtue and, what is more to the point, it will stand the test of every day use and continually demonstrate to you its superiority over all its competitors.

The most delicate skin is not irritated by CREAM CERATE SOAP, but softened, cleaned, invigorated, made healthy and beautiful. Now ask yourself "for the sake of a few cents can I afford to ruin my complexion?" CREAM CERATE SOAP is not expensive—20c a cake, 50c a box (3 cakes) for pure wholesome soap is not expensive. We guarantee you satisfaction or your money back.

GLIDDEN TROPHY TO THE WINNER

CHICAGO, April 25.—The final details of the Chicago to Boston non-motor stop run to be held under the direction of the Chicago Automobile club were announced today. The 1,277 mile run will start June 29 and end July 22.

There will be three classifications for competing cars. The first is for stock cars listed at over $1,200, the winner to hold the Glidden trophy for one year; the second for stock cars listed at $1,200 and under, the winner to hold the A. A. A. reliability trophy for one year; and the third class for non-stock cars entered by private owners, the winner to receive the Anderson trophy for one year.

TROUT FISHERS MAKE BIG HAUL

J. C. Turney and party returned this section during the day and ising trip near Melrose. They exhibited eighty fine trout, averaging three-quarters of a pound in weight. A great deal of difficulty was experienced during the trip on account of the bad roads, their automobile having to go through mud up to the running board.

What never can smooth yet can hardly be expected to change its character for us, so we must take it as we find it and fashion it into the very best shape we can by patience and good humor.—Charles Dickens.

AD A HAS BEEN SAY FIGHT FANS

ST. PAUL, April 25.—Ad Wolgast did the boxing game at Hudson no good when he insisted upon a large guarantee to meet Tillman there and then stepped into the ring out of condition or so lazy that he did not give the patrons of the show their money's worth. In either event he was breaking faith with the management which expected him to be in good condition.

Won't be Asked Again

It is certain that Wolgast will not be in demand at any future entertainment the Hudson Boxing club may give. Last night he showed flashes of form in only two rounds and even in these he was far from living up to his fame as a ring bear. While here Wolgast put on the airs of a champion and affected to regard Tillman as a joke; the Minneapolis boy not only outpointed the Cadillac man during the time Wolgast was apparently resting but when Wolgast did wake up and fight fast, he received as good as he sent. In fact at no time did Wolgast show to any advantage over the conqueror of Pal Brown.

Wolgast's star is waning and setting rapidly; he seems to be about the only boxer in the country who does not know it.

Buckingham Palace and Fire.

While the king and his household are asleep in Buckingham palace there are two men who never rest. They are the firemen who patrol the palace continually during the night with keys which will enable them to open any room in which fire is suspected. SKIN TROUBLES FROM SCROFULA

Among the many manifestations of scrofula are eruptions on the face and body. These are both annoying and disfiguring. How often the complexion would be perfect if they were not present!

Other manifestations are buncches, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, wasting of the muscles, and general debility. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine completely eradicates scrofula and builds up the whole system. Get it today.

VIROQUA SPEAKERS CLEAN UP LEAGUE

Joe Roman and Arnold Fawcett Win First and Second Places

Viroqua captured first and second places in the boys' oratorical contest which was held last evening at the high school. The orations in the rank in which they were placed by the judges are as follows:

1—Emmett's Last Speech—Joe Roman, Viroqua.

2—The Philosophy of the Race Problem—Arnold Fawcett, Viroqua.

3—William McKinley—Cleo Muloch, Sparta.

4—Toll of Industry—William Walker, La Crosse.

6—The Challenge of Crime—Fred Steele, Sparta.

Joe Roman, who took first place, will represent this league in the district contest which will be held in the Normal school soon. If he wins first place there also, he will go to the state contest as the representative of this district.

The girls' declamatory contest, which was held at Sparta last night, also was won by Viroqua. Their representative took first place. Ethel Mabie, one of the girls from the local school, took second with the selection, "The Boy Orator of Zepata City." This is the first time in a number of years that La Crosse has not had a representative in the district contest.

FURNISH CHANCE TO TEST THE LAW

HOME COMING TO GET FULL $1,000

Committee of the Whole Report for $500 Rejected and Minority Report Goes Through

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID

Voted money to city officials to furnish opportunity for test by city.

Voted $1,000 for Homecoming, Made in La Crosse and Fourth of July celebration.

Provided for expert advice on condition of La Crosse Theater. Passed an ordinance licensing and regulating dance halls. Appropriated $100 for G. A. R. and Spanish War veterans' memorial day ceremonies.

Whether or not the payment of money to aldermen for supplies and services to the city is legal will probably be determined by suits brought against the city of La Crosse by those who have money coming.

At last night's session of the council several of the smaller bills were ordered paid by the council. Mayor Ori J. Sorensen, City Clerk E. H. Hoffman and City Comptroller William F. Fries, it was announced by the mayor, will not sign the orders—in spite of the council's O. K.—and the next step will be for the people with money coming to sue.

Torance Bills Not in

The bills of Alderman William Torrance for iron work and materials furnished at the new pumping station, were not presented.

This morning Attorney A. H. Schubert, who served notice that he would hold the officials responsible for money paid out illegally, said he would take no action until some move is made in the city hall.

The board of trade was voted $1,000 for the Homecoming, Made in La Crosse and Fourth of July celebration. The report of the committee of the whole, favoring a $500 appropriation, was rejected while a minority report, brought in by Alderman Torrance, calling for the $1,000, originally asked for by the board was passed.

Advice on Theater

A resolution by Alderman Smith, calling for expert advice on the condition of the La Crosse Theater was passed. It provides for the hiring of architects.

Plans for the Rose street viaduct, submitted by the Milwaukee railway, were officially approved.

A resolution calling for another policeman for the district south of Cass street, was referred to the committees on police and finance.

Resolutions for new marketing places on the North and South sides were tabled.

Odin J. Oyen was awarded a $50 contract to decorate the mayor's office.

A dispute over the proper time to dedicate the new water works ended when the entire matter was referred to the special water committee.

License Dance Halls

The dance hall ordinance passed its third reading last night. Hereafter licenses will have to be procured for all public dances. Liquor may be sold until midnight but all boys and girls under 18 must leave the hall by 11 o'clock. Dances will not run later than 2 o'clock.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell

The old time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mossy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

IRISH UNIONISTS LAND MANY ARMS

70,000 Rifles and Five Million Rounds of Ammunition Run Into Ulster

AUTHORITIES ENTIRELY FOOLED

Don't Wake Up Until All Wires Are Cut and They Are Too Late to Stop Landing

BELFAST, Ireland, April 25.—

Completely outwitting the authorities, the unionists of Ulster today successfully carried on the greatest "gun running" in the history of Ireland and landed 70,000 rifles which have been distributed through out Ulster.

Five million rounds of ammunition were landed at Larne. With this war material at hand. Ulsterites declared they were now ready to resist to the limit the enforcement of home rule.

The rifles and ammunition left Hamburg on the steamship Fanny a month ago and landed successfully last night in three consignments at Larne, Bangor and Donaghadee. Early this morning 100 automobiles were pressed into service and the entire volunteer force of 30,000 men in the Belfast district turned to the task of distributing the arms.

The authorities had believed the gathering of the volunteers was merely a mobilization test and were taken completely by surprise when the automobiles began rushing away.

A shipload of 63,000 rifles arrived at Larne at ten o'clock last night. The town had been completely isolated. All wires were cut and the authorities were unable to communicate with Belfast. The Ulster men had established such a heavy guard that the police were helpless.

And to think that it took the erstwhile lowly Cardinals to stop Pittsburgh's winning streak at seven.

Pittsburg used sixteen players in an effort to stop the Cardinals but those sixteen were as helpless as the sixteen McGraw men used to stop the slaughtering Phillies.

Cincinnati luck has started. Ames held Chicago to three hits but lost 2 to 1.

Mr. Phillips had Stomach Trouble for More than Five Years.

Mr. W. R. Phillips, Jr., 139 Moreland Ave., Atlanta, Georgia, writes: "I had the catarrh and stomach trouble for more than five years, and I faithfully tried all the medicines I saw advertised, and found they all failed to cure me. I then heard of Peruna. I purchased six bottles, and after their use I soon discovered that I was well, safe and sound. I now weigh two hundred and ten pounds, and have never been sick since I took Peruna. It sure is the best medicine for colds, stomach trouble and catarrh that I ever heard of."

Our files abound with testimonials of people who have been the victims of stomach trouble. Peruna seems to be peculiarly adapted to these cases. In no class of human ailments are our testimonials more enthusiastic and numerous than in cases of stomach ailments. Some of these are slight, giving rise to ordinary indigestion. Others are serious, reducing the patient to almost a skeleton. Peruna, because of its tonic laxative qualities, seems to be specifically adapted to catarrh of the stomach and similar ailments.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

NINETEEN AMERICANS AND ONE ENGLISHMAN KILLED SAYS BRYAN

CHICAGO, April 25.—Twenty refugees, nineteen of them Americans, and one a British subject, are believed to have been executed following their capture by Huerta's men near the 155,000 acre plantation of the Motzorongo company of Chicago, in Mexico, late Friday.

Secretary Bryan wired Dr. Herbert A. Parkyn of Chicago, president of the company, today of the seizure and probable execution of the party. A. M. Turner of Chicago is believed to be one of the twenty shot.

Turner was sent to the plantation by the company to order the force to seek protection in case of trouble, but from the Bryan message it is thought he arrived too late.

Bryan's dispatches name a majority of the captured. The message follows:

"Herbert A. Parkyn, president Motzorongo company, Chicago: The following, dated April 24, at 10 a. m., and received from the American consul at Vera Cruz, is sent for your information:

"Am just reliably informed at 8 o'clock Tuesday night soldiers stopped train in vicinity of Tierra Blanca, on Vera Cruz and Isthmus railroad following prisoners:

"W. Mangum, railroad superintendent.

"Elliott, engineer.

"Riley and Hart, conductors.

"All are American. These persons were taken to Cordova or Orizaba and believed ordered shot.

"Some eighteen or more Americans left for Tierra Blanca. C. B. Herron, secretary Isthmus railroad, wife and three children; J. O. Cook, Chief Engineer John F. Lightner, conductor; J. P. Langston and wife; Kerwin, engineer, and Mr. and Mrs. George Macomber.

"Same soldiers stopped at Hacienda Motzorongo, on same railroad, taking prisoners Edward Wunsch and son, Sidney; A. M. Turner, secretary of the Hacienda Motzorongo company, all Americans; also a man named Boyd, a British subject.

"All taken to Cordova or Orizaba. It is reliably stated all these prisoners may be executed.

"Admirals Fletcher and Badger have this information before them."

MEXICO CITY RULED BY ANTI-AMERICAN MOB

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Arrest of several Americans before Charge O'Shaughnessy's train left Mexico City was reported in state department dispatches from Consul Canada today. The report said that J. Starr Hunt and family with several other Americans were taken from the train at Mexico City before it started.

At La Villa, the first station outside of Mexico City, Burton Wilson, believed to be an American, was likewise arrested.

The O'Shaughnessy party reported to Consul Canada that "a perfect reign of terror" prevailed at Mexico City. They confirm the story that the Washington statue was pulled down by a mob.

THIS ORDER PREVENTS UNPROTECTED AMERICANS IN THE SMALL TOWNS FROM SEEKING WHAT LITTLE REFUGE THERE MAY BE IN THE CAPITAL. IT ALSO MAKES IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR EVERY SMALL TOWN TO HOLD THE AMERICAN CIVILIANS AS HOSTAGES.

Strips Americans of Arms
Huerta ordered that the homes of all Americans be searched for arms and Thursday night the American residents of all hotels were stripped of arms. The protectorate established by Sir Lionel Carden, the British ambassador, was unavailing in this matter, as the vindictive dictator was determined Americans should have no means of defense in case of an uprising against them, which he will accept as a demonstration of sympathy and support for him.

The newspapers of the capital have issued the wildest extras. One advised the "chopping up of the dogs."

On a railroad embankment running through a tropic swamp and with the sky-line marked by coconut trees, the transfer of the O'Shaughnessy party from the Huerta train to the American lines was made last night. A mile of up-turn track separated the American train from the Mexican.

Captain H. McL. P. Huse, carrying a flag of truce, proceeded across the open space alone. As he approached the Mexicans, he waved his white flag, as well as a Mexican flag which he carried. Colonel Carona had gone out to meet him and half way between the lines they met.

Colonel Carona and Captain Huse shook hands in friendly fashion and the Mexican officer said:

"I deliver by the order of my president the American charge d'affaires, the American consul, and their staffs."

Captain Huse, shaking hands with O'Shaughnessy and Shanklin, thanked Carona and then said:

U. S. CITIZENS IN MEXICO CITY AT MERCY OF SAVAGE DICTATOR REBEL LEADERS MAY BREAK

HUERTA URGES MOB TO RIOT AGAINST AMERICAN CITIZENS

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD, Staff Correspondent of United Press. Copyright, 1914, by the United Press Associations.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, April 24.—Eight hundred Americans are still in Mexico City today at the mercy of the Dictator Huerta. Anti-American demonstrations are constantly in progress.

Blind with anger, Huerta has instructed the police and soldiers not to molest mobs which have rioted in front of the American club, torn the coat of arms from the door of the consulate, and stoned and insulted the Americans who were brave enough to appear on the streets.

The American club has been abandoned and later looted by Mexicans. The American hotel has also been deserted. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, announced that he was going to Vera Cruz, but it was the intention of O'Shaughnessy to leave secretly for Manzanillo on the west coast.

Since Tuesday, when Vera Cruz was taken, Americans have carried their lives in their hands in Mexico City. As the men worked tirelessly in the embassy preparing rifles and machine guns for action, the brave women of the colony constantly encouraged their husbands. There was no sign of fear. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was ill from nervousness, but she served tea in the embassy to the men and women who were preparing to defend themselves against an expected attack from the infuriated Mexicans. Most of the time Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was prostrated upon a couch, but showing the utmost bravery, she graciously encouraged her husband and all who were working with him.

I arrived in Vera Cruz today with 150 men, women and children, from the American, English and German colonies in Mexico. Another train was due to leave the capital at 7 o'clock this morning and many more Americans may escape from the city. Those remaining, however, are dependent upon Sir Lionel Carden, the British ambassador, for protection. He is doing everything possible to protect them, and his plan when our party left was to distribute the Americans to the various embassies.

It was Wednesday evening when the sixty Americans, arriving here today, left Mexico City on what was really a British refugee train. The men, women and children left behind were hiding in their homes, trusting that Sir Lionel Carden would protect them.

Tuesday night every man in the American colony, including the correspondents, went to the embassy and prepared 275 rifles and two machine guns for use. They were in the basement, and all were brought out, tested and found to be ready.

Every interview between O'Shaughnessy and General Huerta increased the blind anger of the dictator. When I last saw the charge he was unspeakably worried. The last report we heard was that Huerta planned to strip the embassy of its guns in retaliation for the taking of Vera Cruz. He had already seized the railroads and the cable and refused to permit O'Shaughnessy, Consul General Shanklin or Captain Burnsides, the militia attaché, to send messages of any description. "All I want is to get the embassy out of here," was the statement of

VILLA DECLARES HE'S WITH U. S. DON'T WANT WAR

EL PASO, Texas, April 24.—Wild excitement yesterday, born of baseless rumors that General Francisco Villa's rebel troops had attacked or would attack El Paso, was succeeded by calmness today. The presence in Juarez of Villa himself is responsible for the changed feeling and the secret of the hold he has on his followers has been partially explained to Americans. He has the faculty of impressing men with the feeling that he will do whatever he promises. Villa told the newspaper men there would be no war between the United States and the constitutionalists. People on the American side of the Rio Grande immediately dismissed the sensational war rumors as groundless, and resumed their business.

Nevertheless, the United States government is evidently taking no chances. Brigadier General Funston and his brigade from San Francisco will arrive Sunday.

Villa says he will remain in Juarez until the excitement abates, probably a week or ten days—when he will return to Torreon and resume his campaign against Huerta.

Villa brought with him General Felipe Angeles, commander of the rebel artillery division, and General Toribio Ortega, one of Villa's principal commanders.

The generals were escorted by fifteen soldiers, instead of twelve thousand as reported by sensational newspapers yesterday.

General Villa upon his arrival in Juarez from Chihuahua said:

"We do not want a war with the United States or any foreign nation. Mexico has troubles of her own and Mexico can settle them if it is but given a little time. Personally I believe they are on the point of settlement now. I came to Juarez to meet my good American friends, to extend to them a hand of friendship and to thank them for the great interest they have taken in the efforts of the constitutionalists to restore peace to my unhappy country."

"I do not want war and I am sure your people do not. We have always been good friends, haven't we? Why, shouldn't we continue that way? You may rest assured I will do all in my power to see that there is no change in our relationship."

150 Refugees Safe.

A special train carrying 150 American refugees from Chihuahua, Parral and Torreon, reached Juarez early today. The refugees crossed immediately to the American side.

Although several refugees fled voluntarily, others asserted that Marion Letcher, United States consul at Chihuahua, had instructed them to leave. Some declared they intended to return in a few days. Conditions in Chihuahua, Parral and Torreon are quiet and nothing in the of an anti-American outbreak has been threatened. Before Carranza's letter to President Wilson was published in the Mexican press or circulated in various cities of northern Mexico it was modified in language in an effort to prevent the inflaming of the Mexican minds.

Some refugees said they had it on reliable authority that General Carranza and General Villa were on the verge of a break on account of Carranza's attitude towards the United States government. Villa, they said, had refused to back Carranza's request that American marines be withdrawn from Mexican soil.

TEXAS MILITIA OUT

AUSTIN, Texas, April 24.—At noon Gov. Colquitt ordered eight more companies of the national guard to Brownsville, where the situation is said to be acute. Two were sent last night. Gov. Colquitt says two more regiments will probably be mobilized on the border at points yet to be determined.

CONSUL APPEALS FOR FORCES TO PROTECT CITIZENS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 24.—The monitor Cheyenne, rushed under full steam to Ensenada to rescue United States Consul Guyant and other Americans said to be besieged in the consulate by armed Mexicans, is believed to have reached there at daylight today.

"Have taken refuge in consulate. Situation critical. Please send war ships immediately."

This is the text of the latest message received from Guyant. Coming, as it did after a message reporting the entire Mexican population as menacing the Americans, it is regarded as ominous. Although the Cheyenne has not reported, it is believed she has completed her trip. She left the harbor here at 10:30 p. m. and could easily make the ninety miles to Ensenada in eight or ten hours.

MEDIATION REPORT BRANDED FALSITY

Bryan Explains that Report of Foreign Powers' Attempt to Settle Huerta Trouble Is Untrue

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Foreign mediation between the United States and Mexico will not be considered by this government. An offer would be resented and flatly refused. This was clearly and most emphatically indicated today by Secretary of State Bryan.

"Absolutely false," was how he characterized cable reports from London that Ambassador Spring-Rice was making negotiations toward mediation.

Bryan pointed out that it was a diplomatic impossibility to have any power act as mediator and doubted that they would even tender their friendly offices, because the United States does not recognize the Huerta administration.

Bryan stated today that no reply has yet been sent to Carranza. On excellent authority it was learned, however, that important steps to this end are being taken.

Confirmation of the friendly interview given out last night by Gen. Villa was received today by Bryan. He expressed satisfaction over the attitude by the rebel leader regarding it as an encouraging evidence of the probable attitude of the constitutionalists.

KELLY TAKES ON WALTER BAUMAN

MADISON, Wis., April 25.—Spike Kelly and Walter Bauman, who put on a terrific mill at Janesville a few weeks ago, were expected to meet tonight the Madison Athletic club tonight. Bauman was given a shade in most of the decisions after the Janesville argument, but Kelly is anxious to prove that he is master of the Milwaukee Dutchman. Joe Percente, the local lightweight, was anxious for a chance at either Len Rowlands of Milwaukee or Ray Parks of Pittsburgh.

O'Shaughnessy to me the last time I saw him.

Legislators Lead Mob

Members of the house of deputies led the mob which rioted in front of the American club after the news of Vera Cruz was received.

The news of the landing of the marines came to the people through extra editions of the newspapers. The dictator seemed to do everything possible to inflame the crowds. He was successful. They stormed through the streets, driving Americans before them, and then swept on toward the embassy.

O'Shaughnessy had no word from Washington as to the action that had been taken, as messages to him were withheld.

At the request of Ambassador Carden a guard of forty police was sent by Huerta, but throughout Tuesday and Wednesday night the embassy was surrounded by hooting, jeering crowds.

Huerta's action in permitting the mobs to visit their anger against the Americans was obviously in an effort to gain sympathy. If the dictator finds that the followers of Carranza and Zapata, the bandit chief of the south, are anti-American he may even permit violence in an effort to consolidate the divided factions of the country.

Vera Cruz Troops Rage

Enroute to Vera Cruz, our train came upon the federal army which fled from Vera Cruz and I talked with the Mexican soldiers. They were wild with anger and declared they would return soon and "wipe out the Americans."

"The Americans fired before we expected," the troops said, as they related the story of the landing, their hatred for the American sailors increasing with every repeated detail. "We carried fifteen cannon away with us," the soldiers told me, "and will soon be ready to return and drive out the gringo invaders."

Try to Arrest Shepherd
I took a photograph of the retreating troops and at the next station, within two miles of the American lines, our train was held up by the federal soldiers for four hours. The officer in command demanded that I be taken from the train.

"Mr. Britisher, I believe you have deceived us," the officer declared as he insisted upon my arrest. He evidently mistook me for a British subject.

T. H. Hohler, the British chargé d'affaires, refused to surrender me. There was some further parleying, but with the arrival of the relief train on which were British bluejackets from the Essex, we were permitted to continue toward Vera Cruz.

All passengers were transferred to the relief train for the final stage of the trip into Vera Cruz. The engine which pulled the refugees into the seaport city had been filled with 4,000 buckets of water carried by the crews of the battleships Arkansas and Florida. Not being in possession of any water tanks it is necessary for the American forces to carry the water used on the engines.

DON'T ENTIRELY TRUST MR. VILLA

Attitude of Washington Is to Take Declaration at Face Value and Watch Him

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The administration today refused to admit the constitutionalists will side with Huerta. Although troops are hurrying to the Texas border, the president today emphasized again that this nation's quarrel is directed against Huerta alone. The only reprisals contemplated are against the dictator in Mexico City. The suggestion came from the president himself that he has taken Carranza and Villa's promises, presented to the state department by their representatives here, at their face value.

The cabinet meeting today considered the entire Mexican situation.

Play to Grandstand

Secretary Bryan said he also had been told by constitutionalist representatives here that the demand from Carranza that our forces evacuate Vera Cruz and recognize the dominance of the constitutionalists in Mexican affairs was chiefly designed to show his followers that he (Carranza) was upholding the Mexican honor.

Washington was without any confirmation of the report that the revolutionists and federalists at Torreon have agreed to a truce pending developments at Washington and Mexico City. If the report proves true it will confirm the belief of the army and navy war council that even though Villa and Carranza try to do so, they cannot prevent the rank and file of their armies making common cause on the United States.

Border in Danger

Meanwhile, the situation along the border is dangerous. Senator Shepard and Postmaster General Burleson received dispatches today from the people of Brackettville and Eagle Pass, Texas. Brackettville is adjacent to Fort Clark and the people protested vigorously against the withdrawal of headquarters and a battalion of the Fourteenth infantry at that place. It was stated that reliable information was available showing that Mexicans planned to raid the town. Eagle Pass protested that only the Fourteenth cavalry was available for protection there, and an invasion by Mexicans was feared.

Two Expeditions

It was learned on high authority that when word is finally given to crush Huerta and take Mexico City two expeditions will be organized. One will go inland from Vera Cruz. The second will go south and if present plans are followed it will go south from El Paso.

Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the house appropriations committee, conferred with the president today. He told the executive that the democratic majority stood ready to furnish unlimited funds to finance the forces who are to uphold the national honor.

It was stated at the White house that the president has not even considered a call for volunteers. He believes that the regular army and navy and the national guard which will be subject to his orders as soon as the militia bill is signed, will be sufficient for the present.

SAYS HUERTA RESIGNED.

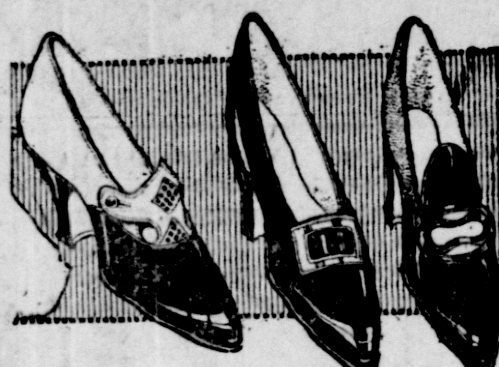

AUSTIN, Tex., April 24.—District Judge Gonzales of Nuevo Laredo claims to have received a telegram from Mexico this morning announcing that Huerta had resigned the presidency in favor of Foreign Minister Portillo y Rojas, and that he (Huerta) would take command of the Mexican army.

Expect Early Call

That the officers expect early summons to action was made plain last night when Captain Bradley ordered his men to procure their own toilet articles, underwear and other equipment to avoid the hurry of eleventh hour preparations.

In view of the fact that the annual inspection takes place Tuesday night and all equipment will then be furnished to the members of the company, it is clear that the Company B commander is anticipating a call within the next few days.

Esperanza Sails for Galveston with Americans from Mexico City and the Interior

BY BERNARD RUCKER.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, April 24.—Aeroplanes flying high over Vera Cruz and out over the surrounding territory, on scout duty, was the possibility held out here today with the arrival of the battleship Mississippi. The dreadnaught, carrying an aeroplane corps, joined the fleet of Rear Admiral Badger.

The troops of General Maas, former military governor of Vera Cruz, are still reported fifteen miles outside the city. Should Admirals Fletcher and Badger receive reports that the reinforcements Maas is said to be expecting are approaching, the aeroplanes could quickly take to the air and bring back reports of the positions of the federal troops. An attack upon Vera Cruz is more or less expected, but the American officers do not believe it will be attempted until Maas is reinforced by troops from Mexico City.

Sniping Keeps Up

Vera Cruz was comparatively quiet last night. Occasional sniping continued, however, and the marines and bluejackets were kept busy raiding houses from which shots were fired, and making arrests.

A great quantity of ammunition was found in a parochial church from which there had been continual sniping. The marines arrested the padre who dropped to his knees in the street, praying loudly and protesting his innocence.

The marines and bluejackets continued their work of cleaning up the city today in the face of sniping from the house-tops. Three more men were killed by the sharpshooters yesterday. A total of fourteen have so far lost their lives. Eighty wounded are aboard the hospital ship Solace.

General Maas is now at Soladad and has been reinforced by 1,800 men. He is threatening to attack Vera Cruz and Captain Rush and Major Butler commanding the marines, have taken every precaution to guard approaches to the town.

Rear Admiral Fletcher advised all Americans to leave the hotels here and spend last night on the refugee ship Mexico. No reason was given but sniping again broke out during the night and the commanders are believed to be expecting another engagement.

Reports from the hospital ship Solace today declared that only three of the wounded marines and bluejackets are in a serious condition. They are Pullian, Wright and Peoples.

The dead have been embalmed and will be sent north at the first opportunity.

SAYS VILLA WILL BE LEFT HELPLESS

WASHINGTON, April 24.—"Within five minutes after war exists between this country and Mexico, General Villa and his forces will be nonentities," a member of Gen. Wood's staff declared this afternoon. "Within that time we can cut off his entire food supply, starve his army and subdue them without firing a gun."

This official pointed out that Villa and his forces are receiving their entire food supply from this country or southern Mexico. He said that plans are all completed to cut off the food supply if at any time it becomes necessary.

DECIDED FOR WAR SITTING IN AUTO

Huerta Settled Refusal of Tampico Apology Sitting in O'Shaughnessy's Motor-car

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

VERA CRUZ, April 24.—Victoriano Huerta and Nelson O'Shaughnessy verbally fought out, on the street, in the open view of the public, the momentous matter of the Tampico incident, on which hung the question of whether American troops should force the dictator to respect the flag.

Found at Bar

With his usual irregularity, Huerta left his home at an early hour. He did not go to the palace nor did he leave word where he planned to go. O'Shaughnessy, having received a 1,000 word cablegram of instructions from Washington, set out to find Huerta, making the usual rounds of the Cafe Colona, where the dictator's morning cognac is usually taken; two or three other cafes which form resting places in the occasional progress to the palace, and finally the Jockey club.

It was at the Jockey club that O'Shaughnessy found his man, standing at the bar.

"Have you your automobile about there?" asked Huerta.

"Yes," replied O'Shaughnessy, "my new one."

"Let's go out and sit in that," said Huerta.

Sat in Car

The two men left the club and stepped into the car, which stood on a side street. Huerta's attendants and body guards drew aside and for three quarters of an hour O'Shaughnessy and the dictator argued.

O'Shaughnessy spoke smilingly, but Huerta spoke vehemently, forcing his right fist from time to time in the palm of his left hand. O'Shaughnessy said Huerta was not drunk. At the conclusion of this public conference the charge drove away in his automobile and filed his report to Washington.

Ready to Flee

In the event of a crisis Huerta has made all preparations for flight. His plan is to declare that he is leaving the front. With him he will have a small body of soldiers known as the battalion of supreme powers. He will elude these, according to his plan, and will seek refuge on a Japanese cruiser at Manzanillo on the Pacific coast.

The papers print what Huerta orders. The probability is that in arranging to escape, the dictator will cause the papers to print that there is great danger from the rebels on the Pacific and that it is necessary for him to go to the front. It is well known that he has made most strenuous efforts to keep the road toward the Pacific clear of rebels. The report therefore, will be an untruth, but will give Huerta the necessary excuse for leaving the capital.

Mr. Torrance could not be reached with an inquiry as to the withdrawal of the bills, but previously he has explained that he merely does the casting for B. Ott & Sons, who do no casting, and who buy all their castings for all purposes from him. The bill just presented, he says, was for work done directly for the city, but he consented to do it as a favor for the engineers, Alvord & Burdick, Chicago, who after finding an emergency job could not be completed in Chicago inside of three weeks asked him to come to the relief of the city in the matter.

Alderman Robert Schultz, a north side baker, had a bill for $17.99 in. It was for bread furnished the city to feed prisoners in central police station. The mayor refused to sign it.

A bill for $1.11 from the L. C. Colman Lumber Co., was turned down because L. C. Colman is a member of the park commission.

City Attorney Rules

A few days ago the mayor asked the city attorney for a ruling on the subject. Today he received it. City Attorney Higbee, in a letter to the mayor, said that while, in his opinion, no moral wrong had been intentionally done, technically, they were guilty of a violation of the law as laid down in the city charter.

The section, which the city attorney quoted in his letter to Mayor Sorensen, is section 1 of Chapter 15 of the charter.

Schubert Waiting

Attorney Schubert today declared that, if the bills of city officials are not presented to the council tonight he will take no action. In the event they are, he said, and are voted for payment by the council, he will immediately secure an injunction restraining the city treasurer from turning over the money.

ENGLISH PRAISE YANKEE ATHLETES

Daily Mail Says American Victories Are Due to Better Judgment and Form Development

NEW YORK, April 24.—In discussing the American golfers in England to compete for the English amateur title, the London Daily Mail made a real discovery for the English and wrote about it. The Mail hit pretty solidly at the secret of American success in the sport field when it said:

"It is the spirit of foresight, perseverance, and minute attention to details that has brought American victory in so many and such varied branches of sport, and it is precisely this spirit we in Britain, as a rule, lack, as we are as deliberately casual as our foreign, especially American competitors, are deliberately careful, in that they bring to these international contests extra keenness, stronger desire to win, and sounder and more scientific habit of insurance against risks and far greater readiness to submit to necessary trouble and discipline."

"Thoroughness" is the watchword in American sports. In baseball the game has developed until the master mind with an inferior club may lead a better team with inferior leadership. It is the attention to detail, the careful planning of attack and defense that wins ball games, as well as the slugging of the batsmen and the work in the field.

In track and field sports, look back over the strides that have been made during the past ten years. Records have constantly been lowered, due as much to "form" as to the development of a higher type of athlete. Not many years ago hurdlers were topping the sticks by "taking off" from the left foot and then gracefully curling the right leg with a band at the knee as the hurdle was cleared. The runner cleared the hurdle by several inches. Then Kraenzlein introduced the "split."

Instead of wasting time in sailing gracefully over the hurdle, the right leg was lifted forward and upward straight out. Extra effort was put in the take off, but not so that the hurdle would be cleared with inches to spare. The clearing of the hurdle has now been "boiled down" until the fastest men make it what is little more than a long, high step. In all running the arms have been brought more into play. It is recognized that a man especially a sprinter, may run with his arms almost as much as with his legs. The straight up and down "pumping" of the arms, bent at the elbow by which the sprinter lofts himself along, coupled with up and down action and "reaching" with legs has clipped seconds off every record. It is long since you have seen even a high school runner kicking his heels up in back. It is now a case of reach forward, life the knees high, and avoid every lost motion.

Commenting further on the lack of attention to details by the English, the Daily Mail said: "The consequence is that we rarely turn a potentially first-rate man into an actually first rate man." That is where this country now shines at its best. The training methods, the years of study which have been given the various sports by the men interested in them, have brought out "form"—the result of superior training—which makes a trained man of mediocre ability better than a man of great native ability but no training, and lifts the man of natural ability from the class of the ordinary performers to that of the record holders.

The Aurora Borealis.

The aurora borealis, or northern dawn, is an electrical phenomenon which in high northern latitudes, especially in winter, illuminates the sky with streamers of light. As the streams of light have a tremendous motion, they are called in many places the "merry dances." They assume many shapes and a variety of colors, from a pale red or yellow to a deep red or blood color, and in the northern latitudes they serve to illuminate the earth and cheer the gloom of the long winter nights. The connection of the aurora displays with the disturbance of the magnetic needle is now regarded as an ascertained fact.

Tod Sloan has forsaken the racing game, but he is now going the pace that kills. He has purchased a sajoon.

The indications early today were that the serious fighting of today would rage in and around Walsenburg. The women and children there are being placed in protection cellars.

NOSE AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM GOLD OR CATARRH, OPEN AT ONCE

My Cleansing, Healing Balm Instantly Clears Nose, Head and Throat—Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges. Dull Headache Goes

Try "Ely's Cream Balm." Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache will disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

UGH! NOT CALOMEL, OIL OR SALTS, TAKE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Delicious "fruit laxative" cleanses stomach, liver and bowels.

A harmless cure for sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, salivaceous—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all such misery comes from a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without gripping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative can not cause injury. Even the most delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser, regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine, so ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup" company. This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch the label.

BATTLE OF MINERS RENEWED IN NIGHT

One Striker Killed in Fighting in Streets of Walsenburg Yesterday

GATHER TO OPPOSE THE MILITIA

Serious Clash Is Expected Between Troops and Men at Walsenburg

TRINIDAD, Col., April 24.—One thousand armed strikers from the United miners' tent colony at Aguilera early today were gathering below Walsenburg to oppose the advance of 369 state militiamen under command of Brigadier General John C. Chase, who left Denver yesterday. Behind the strikers lay the smoking ruins of eight great coal properties, in the coal field between Delagua and Rouse, over which fighting between strikers and mine guards raged all day.

One striker was shot in a battle in the streets of Walsenburg last night. The list of known dead in the Ludlow district, where the miners' tent colony was burned has grown to twenty-nine and it is believed by operators that at least a score or more strikers and guards lie dead in the fields over which the fighting raged yesterday. Scores are wounded.

Shortly after midnight the special troop train reached Walsenburg Junction, where horses were unloaded. It was planned to proceed to Walsenburg under a cavalry guard, there detain and march to Trinidad and Ludlow.

The indications early today were that the serious fighting of today would rage in and around Walsenburg. The women and children there are being placed in protection cellars.

John McLennan, district president of the miners, was arrested by militiamen at Ludlow late last night as he was passing through enroute from Trinidad.

20 REFUGEES REPORTED EXECUTED HUERTA WON'T LET AMERICANS GO STRIPS THOSE IN CAPITAL OF ARMS

NINETEEN AMERICANS AND ONE ENGLISHMAN KILLED SAYS BRYAN

CHICAGO, April 25.—Twenty refugees, nineteen of them Americans, and one British subject, are believed to have been executed following their capture by Huerta's men near the 155,000 acre plantation of the Motzorongo company of Chicago, in Mexico, late Friday.

Secretary Bryan wired Dr. Herbert A. Parkyn of Chicago, president of the company, today of the seizure and probable execution of the party. A. M. Turner of Chicago is believed to be one of the twenty shot.

Turner was sent to the plantation by the company to order the force to seek protection in case of trouble, but from the Bryan message it is thought he arrived too late.

Bryan's dispatches name a majority of the captured. The message follows:

"Herbert A. Parkyn, president Motzorongo company, Chicago: The following, dated April 24, at 10 a. m., and received from the American consul at Vera Cruz, is sent for your information:

MEXICO CITY RULED BY ANTI-AMERICAN MOB

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Arrest of several Americans before Charge O'Shaughnessy's train left Mexico City was reported in state department dispatches from Consul Canada today. The report said that J. Starr Hunt and family with several other Americans were taken from the train at Mexico City before it started.

At La Villa, the first station out-side of Mexico City, Burton Wilson, believed to be an American, was likewise arrested.

The O'Shaughnessy party reported to Consul Canada that "a perfect reign of terror" prevailed at Mexico City. They confirm the story that the Washington statue was pulled down by a mob.

THIS ORDER PREVENTS UNPROTECTED AMERICANS IN THE SMALL TOWNS FROM SEEKING WHAT LITTLE REFUGE THERE MAY BE IN THE CAPITAL. IT ALSO MAKES IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR EVERY SMALL TOWN TO HOLD THE AMERICAN CIVILIANS AS HOSTAGES.

Strips Americans of Arms
Huerta ordered that the homes of all Americans be searched for arms and Thursday night the American residents of all hotels were stripped of arms. The protectorate established by Sir Lionel Carden, the British ambassador, was unavailing in this matter, as the vindictive dictator was determined Americans should have no means of defense in case of an uprising against them, which he will accept as a demonstration of sympathy and support for him.

The newspapers of the capital have issued the wildest extras. One advised the 'chopping up of the dogs.'

On a railroad embankment running through a tropic swamp and with the sky-line marked by coconut trees, the transfer of the O'Shaughnessy party from the Huerta train to the American lines was made last night. A mile of up-train track separated the American train from the Mexican.

Captain H. McL. P. Huse, carrying a flag of truce, proceeded across the open space alone. As he approached the Mexicans, he waved his white flag, as well as a Mexican flag which he carried. Colonel Carona had gone out to meet him and half way between the lines they met.

Colonel Carona and Captain Huse shook hands in friendly fashion and the Mexican officer said:

"I deliver by the order of my president the American charge d'affaires, the American consul, and their staffs."

Captain Huse, shaking hands with O'Shaughnessy and Shanklin, thanked Carona and then said:

Fletcher Would Exchange
"I have brought to the line on my train a large number of Mexicans who desire to leave Vera Cruz. Admiral Fletcher desires me to say he understands many Americans are in the capital who wish to depart. He would be pleased to open passenger traffic both ways between the two cities. As an earnest appeal he desires me to turn over to you the wife and daughter of General Maas."

At this point Colonel Carona greeted both women, who are relatives of Huerta. Carona had been especially ordered by the dictator to secure them in trade for O'Shaughnessy and other members of the diplomatic staff. Huse then permitted 250 Mexican refugees to cross the American line.

"Perhaps you can now make arrangements for the departure of Americans from Mexico," said O'Shaughnessy, addressing Colonel Carona.

Carona smiled and bowed politely, but replied:

"I have no authority to discuss any other matter than the delivery of the American representatives."

U. S. CITIZENS IN MEXICO CITY AT MERCY OF SAVAGE DICTATOR REBEL LEADERS MAY BREAK

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD, Staff Correspondent of United Press. Copyright, 1914, by the United Press Associations.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, April 24.—Eight hundred Americans are still in Mexico City today at the mercy of the Dictator Huerta. Anti-American demonstrations are constantly in progress.

Blind with anger, Huerta has instructed the police and soldiers not to molest mobs which have rioted in front of the American club, torn the coat of arms from the door of the consulate, and stoned and insulted the Americans who were brave enough to appear on the streets.

The American club has been abandoned and later looted by Mexicans. The American hotel has also been deserted. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, announced that he was going to Vera Cruz, but it was the intention of O'Shaughnessy to leave secretly for Manzanillo on the west coast.

Since Tuesday, when Vera Cruz was taken, Americans have carried their lives in their hands in Mexico City. As the men worked tirelessly in the embassy preparing rifles and machine guns for action, the brave women of the colony constantly encouraged their husbands. There was no sign of fear. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was ill from nervousness, but she served tea in the embassy to the men and women who were preparing to defend themselves against an expected attack from the infuriated Mexicans. Most of the time Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was prostrated upon a couch, but showing the utmost bravery, she graciously encouraged her husband and all who were working with him.

I arrived in Vera Cruz today with 150 men, women and children, from the American, English and German colonies in Mexico. Another train was due to leave the capital at 7 o'clock this morning and many more Americans may escape from the city. Those remaining, however, are dependent upon Sir Lionel Carden, the British ambassador, for protection. He is doing everything possible to protect them, and his plan when our party left was to distribute the Americans to the various embassies.

It was Wednesday evening when the sixty Americans, arriving here today, left Mexico City on what was really a British refugee train. The men, women and children left behind were hiding in their homes, trusting that Sir Lionel Carden would protect them.

Tuesday night every man in the American colony, including the correspondents, went to the embassy and prepared 275 rifles and two machine guns for use. They were in the basement, and all were brought out, tested and found to be ready.

Every interview between O'Shaughnessy and General Huerta increased the blind anger of the dictator. When I last saw the charge he was unspeakably worried.

The last report we heard was that Huerta planned to strip the embassy of its guns in retaliation for the taking of Vera Cruz. He had already seized the railroads and the cable and refused to permit O'Shaughnessy, Consul General Shanklin or Captain Burnside, the militia attaché, to send messages of any description. "All I want is to get the embassy out of here," was the statement of

EL PASO, Texas, April 24.—Wild excitement yesterday, born of baseless rumors that General Francisco Villa's rebel troops had attacked or would attack El Paso, was succeeded by calmness today. The presence in Juarez of Villa himself is responsible for the changed feeling and the secret of the hold he has on his followers has been partially explained to Americans. He has the faculty of impressing men with the feeling that he will do whatever he promises. Villa told the newspaper men there would be no war between the United States and the constitutionalists. People on the American side of the Rio Grande immediately dismissed the sensational war rumors as groundless, and resumed their business.

Nevertheless, the United States government is evidently taking no chances. Brigadier General Funston and his brigade from San Francisco will arrive Sunday.

Villa says he will remain in Juarez until the excitement abates, probably a week or ten days—when he will return to Torreón and resume his campaign against Huerta.

Villa brought with him General Felipe Angeles, commander of the rebel artillery division, and General Toribio Ortega, one of Villa's principal commanders.

The generals were escorted by fifteen soldiers, instead of twelve thousand as reported by sensational newspapers yesterday.

General Villa upon his arrival in Juarez from Chihuahua said:

"We do not want a war with the United States or any foreign nation. Mexico has troubles of her own and Mexico can settle them if it is but given a little time. Personally I believe they are on the point of settlement now. I came to Juarez to meet my good American friends, to extend to them a hand of friendship and to thank them for the great interest they have taken in the efforts of the constitutionalists to restore peace to my unhappy country."

"I do not want war and I am sure your people do not. We have always been good friends, haven't we? Why, shouldn't we continue that way? You may rest assured I will do all in my power to see that there is no change in our relationship."

150 Refugees Safe.

A special train carrying 150 American refugees from Chihuahua, Parral and Torreón, reached Juarez early today. The refugees crossed immediately to the American side.

Although several refugees fled voluntarily, others asserted that Marion Letcher, United States consul at Chihuahua, had instructed them to leave. Some declared they intended to return in a few days. Conditions in Chihuahua, Parral and Torreón are quiet and nothing in the of an anti-American outbreak has been threatened. Before Carranza's letter to President Wilson was published in the Mexican press or circulated in various cities of northern Mexico it was modified in language, in an effort to prevent the inflaming of the Mexican minds.

Some refugees said they had it on reliable authority that General Carranza and General Villa were on the verge of a break on account of Carranza's attitude towards the United States government. Villa, they said, had refused to back Carranza's request that American marines be withdrawn from Mexican soil.

TEXAS MILITIA OUT

AUSTIN, Texas, April 24.—At noon Gov. Colquitt ordered eight more companies of the national guard to Brownsville, where the situation is said to be acute. Two were sent last night. Gov. Colquitt says two more regiments will probably be mobilized on the border at points yet to be determined.

CONSUL APPEALS FOR FORCES TO PROTECT CITIZENS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 24.—The monitor Cheyenne, rushed under full steam to Ensenada to rescue United States Consul Guyant and other Americans said to be besieged in the consulate by armed Mexicans, is believed to have reached there at daylight today.

"Have taken refuge in consulate. Situation critical. Please send war ships immediately."

This is the text of the latest message received from Guyant. Coming, as it did after a message reporting the entire Mexican population as menacing the Americans, it is regarded as ominous. Although the Cheyenne has not reported, it is believed she has completed her trip. She left the harbor here at 10:30 p. m. and could easily make the ninety miles to Ensenada in eight or ten hours.

EXTRA! MEDIATION REPORT BRANDED FALSITY

Bryan Explains that Report of Foreign Powers' Attempt to Settle Huerta Trouble Is Untrue

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Foreign mediation between the United States and Mexico will not be considered by this government. An offer would be resented and flatly refused. This was clearly and most emphatically indicated today by Secretary of State Bryan.

"Absolutely false," was how he characterized cable reports from London that Ambassador Spring-Rice was making negotiations toward mediation.

Bryan pointed out that it was a diplomatic impossibility to have any power act as mediator and doubted that they would even tender their friendly offices, because the United States does not recognize the Huerta administration.

Bryan stated today that no reply has yet been sent to Carranza. On excellent authority it was learned, however, that important steps to this end are being taken.

Confirmation of the friendly interview given out last night by Gen. Villa was received today by Bryan. He expressed satisfaction over the attitude by the rebel leader regarding it as an encouraging evidence of the probable attitude of the constitutionalists.

KELLY TAKES ON WALTER BAUMAN

MADISON, Wis., April 25.—Spike Kelly and Walter Bauman, who put on a terrific mill at Janesville a few weeks ago, were expected to meet before the Madison Athletic club tonight. Bauman was given a shade in most of the decisions after the Janesville argument, but Kelly is anxious to prove that he is master of the Milwaukee Dutchman. Joe Percente, the local lightweight, was anxious for a chance at either Len Rowlands of Milwaukee or Ray Parks of Pittsburgh.

HUERTA SIEZES ARMS AND DENIES FLIGHT

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD,

United Press Staff Correspondent. Copyright 1914 by the United Press.

VERA CRUZ, APRIL 25.—EVERY INTERIOR CITY OF MEXICO IS HOLDING AMERICAN PRISONERS AS HOSTAGES, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF CHARGE NELSON O'SHAUGHNESSY. EVERY MEMBER IF THE DIPLOMATIC PARTY ARRIVING HERE FROM MEXICO CITY LAST NIGHT, PRIVATELY EXPRESSED THE OPINION THAT ONLY HE EARLY ARRIVAL OF TROOPS IN THE CAPITAL AND THE OVERTHROW OF THE DICTATOR, HUERTA, WILL SAVE THE MAROONED AMERICANS.

At almost every town between Vera Cruz and Mexico City Americans are being held prisoners. This I learned upon meeting O'Shaughnessy and his party four miles from Vera Cruz, where they were transferred from the special train furnished by Huerta to the American train that bore them into this city.

The passage of O'Shaughnessy's train from the capital was most dramatic. The charge, with his wife and son, Consul General Shanklin and members of the embassy, left Mexico City at midnight Thursday. Mobs were then in front of the embassy.

Americans Begged Rescue.
At the station American besieged the train, pleading that they be permitted to accompany the fleeing party. Colonel Ramon Carona, assigned by Huerta to escort O'Shaughnessy from the city, flatly refused.

Before the departure Huerta sent 20 soldiers to the embassy to seize the 275 rifles and two machine guns which were stored there for the defense of the American citizens. The American volunteer guards were prepared to defend their arms, but on the advice of O'Shaughnessy they surrendered them without resistance.

Then began the trip for Vera Cruz, during which the hearts of everyone in the diplomatic party were to be touched by the appeals of countrymen for aid. At the towns of Orizaba, Cordova and Jalapa, Americans were crowded about the stations, they pleaded with the American charge to be taken aboard his train. O'Shaughnessy was helpless. These stranded Americans had been taken from trains bound for Vera Cruz.

At Cordova an American wearing a British flag sneaked to the side of the train and handed a note to one of the consular empoles. This note read:

Plead for Help
"Blisser, Erford, Whitcomb, and a

"Blisser, Erford, Whitcomb, and a good many other Americans are being held in jail here. They were taken off a train and are being held as hostage in case Americans attack the town. They want to know if you can't help."

At Tejeria, the last station before reaching the American lines, O'Shaughnessy saw several Americans who had been taken off trains. They pleaded piteously to be carried the remaining thirty miles to safety. They told O'Shaughnessy they had been on a refugee train which left Mexico City Thursday morning. Some of the party had been sent clear back to the capital. Their train had passed O'Shaughnessy's during the night.

WHEN O'SHAUGHNESSY LEFT THE CAPITAL, HUERTA HAD ORDERED THAT NO MORE AMERICANS SHOULD BE PERMITTED TO DEPART OR ENTER THE CITY.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

BILL'S SWEETHEART

BY IZOLA FORRESTER

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"It wouldn't be so bad if she were anything but a school teacher. Do you honestly like school teachers, Billie, dear?"

Mrs. Barrie glanced up from the little desk in the south end of the morning room. Dr. Chapin read his mail always over his breakfast, and liked the latter served at the open window looking out to sea, on her small table.

"Of course, we're not obliged to take her, but Roxana is so explicit. She just makes it seem like a duty, don't you know, Billie? And there's not another place where she could live on the whole strip excepting Captain Donnelly's, and I wouldn't let her go there if she's a friend of Roxa's, of course. I don't think she'll be much bother, do you, Billie?"

"How old is she?" asked the doctor, cheerfully. "You must strike a happy medium, Sally. If she's too young, she'll keep us all busy amusing her, and if she's too old, she'll try to amuse us."

"Roxa doesn't say. We're to meet the 5:02 train down from Boston Saturday at Asconsett, and she's going to wear a pongee coat with black satin buttons. You'll remember, Bill, won't you, because you'll have to meet her."

"What's her name, did you say?"

"I haven't told you yet. It's, let's see where it is—oh, yes, it's Bess Broderick."

"Great Scott!" Dr. Chapin lifted his head and stared in absolute panic at the plump, placid figure down by the desk. "Does she know I'm here?"

"Why, Billy, dear, how very funny you look? You act scared. Do you know her?"

The doctor hesitated. He had not been a doctor very long. Two years back of that lay his interne days, and back of that college. He had not seen Bess since the college days, not since they both went to the old university in Wisconsin. It flashed back now, the whole winter and spring of courting Bess. The little snug bungalow and crescent of sand and wide sweep of sea and sky vanished. In their stead there was Bess brown eyed and laughing, the old class days, and the long tramps and picnics up along the lake shore. Then there had been the night when he had taken her home and tried to kiss her. She had been as gay and fun loving as any of the girls, but out there on the rose covered porch of the cottage, with his sweater around her shoulders, she had told him something, grave and sweet as a girl could be.

"You see, Billie, it's this way. I've never kissed a man, not really. You don't count the little snatched ones at parties, you know. I mean like this, if I were to lift my face and really, truly let you kiss me right bang on the lips. And maybe kiss back, I don't know. I've been saying that for one who will be the one, you understand, don't you, Billie, and—and I don't think that's you."

He had been leaving the following day, and he asked her to write to him. All through his days in the hospital she had written cheery, chummy letters, but no sweethearting. She told him if he started it, the letters would stop because he wasn't the right one. He had grown to hate that other fellow who stood in his way, the right one. And finally he had taken the plunge and had written her one long appeal, and she had not answered the letter. She might at least have done that, he thought.

"I think I'll run up to Boston for a couple of weeks, Sallie," began the doctor. "I did know Miss Broderick out west at college, but that was Wisconsin, and this is Cape Cod."

"Did you flirt with her, Billie?" This reproachfully. The doctor had the reputation of being a sober minded, promising young citizen and member of society up around Boston, but Sallie preserved a sisterly recollection of the days out at college before the exodus down east after their grandfather's death.

"I," he hesitated and smiled grimly. "Sallie, be good. I don't think it would add to Miss Broderick's vacation pleasure to find me here at all. She probably doesn't even know that I am your brother."

"But you can't go away and leave me alone here with only Della and the baby. You promised to stay for two months while Tom was gone to the coast, and you have to, Billie. Don't be a goose. Just be nice to the girl and courteous, that's all. A woman always accepts a situation factually."

The doctor remained against his will and judgment. Saturday he drove down to Asconsett and waited for the down train that trailed along the cape. At least, he told himself, he would be no captive in her train of triumph. Not in any way would he show her he remembered the heartache of the old days.

She did not recognize him, not at first. The few passengers straggled away from the platform into the waiting station hacks and caryalls, and left her standing.

"Miss Broderick, isn't it?" asked Billie cordially, but with dignity. And Bess looked up in his face with one startled flash of surprised delight.

"Why, Billy Chapin, you old dear," she exclaimed. "I thought sure you'd run away when you found I was coming down."

"Then you knew I was here?"

"Roxa told me, but I couldn't give up the trip just for fear you might get unexpected heart throbs."

Billie started to speak, halted, looked down at her hazel eyes. They had the same little gold sparkle in them that he remembered when the Various Forms Of Headache

"It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the causes which produce the affection," says Dr. J. W. Ray of Brockton, Ala. Continuing, he says: "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease without knowing what causes give rise to it, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the cause. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain until the cause of the trouble has been removed. To answer this purpose Anti-kamnia Tablets will be found a most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One tablet every one to three hours gives comfort and rest in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia and particularly the headaches of women."

When we have a patient subject to regular attacks of sick headache, we should caution him to keep his bowels regular, for which nothing is better than "Actoids" and when he feels the least sign of an oncoming attack, he should take two A-K Tablets. Such patients should always be instructed to carry a few Anti-kamnia Tablets, so as to have them ready for instant use. These depend on to produce relief in a very few minutes. Ask for A-K Tablets.

Anti-kamnia Tablets can be obtained at all druggists and so can A-K Salve, so well known for Eczema and skin diseases.

light struck them right. Just as her brown hair held the sunlight sheer. He helped her into his lightweight cart, and turned the pony's head along the shore road. The situation required much restraint and diplomacy.

"I'm glad you've made a success, Billie," she was saying. "Do you specialize in anything particular?"

"Anything but hearts," said Billie.

"The sea view is beautiful from this hill, isn't it?"

"It's better farther on, by moonlight."

She turned and looked at him with troubled eyes.

"Billie, what is it? You used to be so earnest and strong, somehow, and now you seem cynical."

"You might at least have answered the letter, even if it was just a cub's effusion. It was fearfully sincere."

Bess frowned. "I haven't the least idea what you're talking about."

"The last letter I ever wrote to you."

"I haven't heard from you in over two years; not since you wrote of leaving the hospital."

"It was after that," said Billie gloomily. "I sent it to the dear old place on the shore where you always stayed."

"Billie!" Her little gloved hand reached over and gripped his—the left one nearest her. Billie lost control of the reins, but the pony jogged along just the same. "I never got it at all. Couldn't you remember what was in it and tell it to me now, please Billie?"

Mrs. Barrie waited dinner patiently, then anxiously; but it was past the sunset hour when the cart came slowly up to the low, broad veranda and Billie helped the little school teacher out. Even from a sister's standpoint she could see that Bill's face fairly shone with an inner radiance.

"Sallie," he said, "Sallie, it's all over. Bess and I are engaged. Don't ask any questions until after dinner, because we're starved. God bless Cousin Roxa."

Catering to All.

A Boston merchant tells of an old grocer in Massachusetts who was about as "slick" an article as one would care to meet.

"One day," says the Bostonian, "I stopped before his shop and looked curiously at a long line of barrels of apples, some marked with an 'A,' some marked with a 'Z.'"

"What is the meaning of these markings?" I asked. "The barrels seem to contain the same kind of apples."

"They are the same kind, son," the old gentleman replied, "but some customers want a barrel opened at the top and some at the bottom."—New York Times.

EXPECT THE CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

Local Recruiting Station Regulars Look for Orders to Enlist Men for War

Scores of La Crosse boys with an over-abundance of patriotism are today casting longing eyes at the regular army and anticipating donning of the khaki. The sole question that seems to be troubling the would be "boys in blue" is their speedy arrival at the front.

Expect the Call Since morning more than forty men seeking to enlist in the volunteer service have sought information at the army recruiting station. No volunteers have as yet been called for but the La Crosse recruiting officers are daily expecting word to enlist volunteers from the adjutant general at Washington.

Two applications were made to join the regulars this morning but both men failed to pass the physical examination owing to defective eye sight. In most cases men prefer to join the volunteers, as they would then be mustered out at the close of active service.

All that is necessary to join the first papers if not American born, and a willingness to spend three years in active service and four years in the reserve service of the army. Recruiting Officers Joseph Evans and Bernard Egan are patiently waiting at the recruiting station in the Starum and Hubberg building to take on all comers who can qualify. The recruiting officers predict speedy service for the regulars.

Go to Snelling Recruits enlisting at the La Crosse sub station will be forwarded to Fort Snelling, Minneapolis, the head recruiting station for this district. From the Minneapolis recruiting station the newly enlisted are sent to St. Louis once a week.

At St. Louis the recruits are allotted to various regiments in need of men to reach the full war strength. At the present time all recruits at St. Louis are being assigned to regiments which are in line for active service in Mexico.

While the navy is opening the warfare at Mexico few men are seeking information on navy enlistments, preferring the army. Terms of navy enlistment are four years.

Most Enthusiastic.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How the Keeper Saved the Fawn's Life.

JACK and Evelyn sometimes went on trips to the zoo with daddy, but they hadn't been there for ever so long. So when daddy came home they spoke about it.

"I know," said daddy, "we haven't been for a long, long time, that's very true, but we'll surely go soon."

"First, though, I must tell you the story I heard of one of the deer in the zoo."

"This mother deer had a beautiful young fawn, and, oh, she was so proud of her beautiful child! She gave the fawn all the attention that any devoted mother deer could."

"One day, alas, the fawn, who was somewhat delicate, caught a terrible cold. The mother deer was frightened, and by evening the fawn's cough was dreadful. Now, the keeper had fed all the animals, and they had gone to bed for the night. But the deer cried so piteously that the good, kind keeper, whose own home was near by, knew that something was the matter."

"When he reached the little home of the mother deer and her beautiful fawn he found the mother deer leaning her head sadly against the wire door, and the fawn had her head by her mother's side."

"Oh, my child, my beautiful child, is ill! She has such a dreadful cold and I'm afraid she'll die! Oh, what can you do for her?" wailed the deer.

"The keeper understood perfectly, and he took a big warm rug and put it right over the fawn. Then he went back to his home and heated some milk which he came back with and fed slowly to the deer."

"The keeper sat up all night with the fawn, giving her warm milk and keeping her well covered. She did look so sick, and her big eyes looked so pleading! They seemed to say:

"Oh, Mr. Keeper, save me so I won't have to leave my mother!"

"And as the keeper began to soothe the fawn the mother deer looked on and seemed so relieved."

"In the morning the fawn's cold was ever so much better. It had almost entirely disappeared, and by afternoon, when the fawn had been in the sun all the morning, she was really quite herself again."

"Once more her big eyes looked happy, and the mother deer, when the keeper came to bring them their supper that night, put her head on the keeper's shoulder and cried—a very different cry from the night before. She cried for joy because her lovely fawn was alive and well, and she cried on the keeper's shoulder because she knew the keeper had saved her beautiful child's life."

HOPE U. S. CITIZENS WILL MAKE ESCAPE

President Declares that We Are Not Yet Actually at War with the Dictator

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Secretary of State Bryan and Secretary of the Navy Daniels went into conference with the president in the executive office. Prior to the conference Bryan received a number of important code dispatches from Consul agents in Mexico. Boaz Long, head of the state department division of Latin-American affairs, was later summoned to the meeting. President Wilson was very hopeful after the conference that not only O'Shaughnessy but all of the Americans remaining in Mexico City would surely reach Vera Cruz Saturday.

No Blockade Yet. The president said absolutely nothing has been done toward the establishment of a blockade on either the east or west coast, with the exception of the occupation of Vera Cruz. The action of the United States up to the present time is confined entirely to reprisals on Huerta. Refugees were being taken to safety at Tampico and merchant vessels have been ordered out of the harbor, but this did not necessarily mean a blockade.

He explained that he could not outline any questions of policy because to do so would be unwise and would furnish the opposition badly needed information. So far as the embargo on arms was concerned, the president contented himself with saying that there had been no official action. He was careful to emphasize official, and said when asked regarding the known holdup of certain arms at points on the border that the matter had not been brought to his attention, indicating that the local authorities were assuming responsibility.

Not War—Now. The president said that he has not yet been notified by Senor Algarra what government Huerta will ask to look out for the affairs of the Mexican government here. The president carefully explained that so far as his authority was concerned a state of war with Mexico does not exist. He said that while a request for passports always precedes war, war does not always necessarily follow. But he indicated that a hostile declaration from Huerta was looked for.

The action of Huerta in handing O'Shaughnessy his passports came as a surprise to this government and has caused delay in making arrangements for another friendly power to represent us.

The Roman Forum. The Forum Romanum, the first that was erected in Rome, served equally for the purpose of trade and all public meetings as well as for the administration of justice by the consuls and other Roman magistrates. Later on, when the forum numbered some eighteen or twenty, they were divided into two classes, some for public meetings and the proceedings of the law courts and others for the various requirements of trade. The Roman forum corresponded to the agora, or market place, of the Greeks, and no Roman city was without this important center of judicial, political and commercial life. — New York American.

IOWA CHURCHES MEET AT M'GREGOR

District Association of the Congregational Churches of Iowa Meet for Two Day Session

M'GREGOR, Iowa, April 23.—A majority of the churches in the district were represented at the meeting of the Northwestern Iowa association of Congregational churches held in this city Monday and Tuesday. The meeting was quite generally conceded to have been one of the best in the history of the association. The talks and addresses were of a very good average with a note of progressivism and optimism dominating. Those of Rev. Milligan of Dubuque, Dr. Updike of Madison, Wis., and W. C. Barber of Des Moines, who for the past eight years has been superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league in Iowa, attracted especial attention. The recent announcement that Mr. Barber will be a candidate for lieutenant governor in the republican primaries on a platform asking for the repeal of the mulct law and a return to statutory prohibition in Iowa gave added interest to his address on the "Movement Toward National Prohibition." A resolution endorsing Mr. Barber's work and his stand on the liquor question in Iowa was introduced by Rev. Milligan and adopted by the association.

School Superintendent Honored. T. R. Roberts, superintendent of the McGregor schools, has been appointed president of the Big Five Teachers' association to succeed Superintendent Cherney of Guttenberg who has gone to Independence and is no longer in the district. The Big Five association is composed of the teachers of the five most northeastern counties of the state. The annual meeting will be held this year at Decorah, May 1 and 2. The speakers will be Dr. Judd of the University of Chicago, Dr. Jessup of Iowa City, President R. W. Cooper of the Upper Iowa University, Superintendent Harris of Dubuque, Dr. Stout of Cornell college and Miss Hatcher of the State Normal at Cedar Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Marten have been the guests the past week of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Donaldson. Mrs. Marten was formerly Miss Jeanne Donaldson. They have been living for the past few years at Fargo, N. D., where Mr. Marten has been a member of the faculty of the state agricultural college. He has recently resigned the position to accept a professorship in the Montana agricultural college at Bozeman, Montana.

Attend Health Meeting. Mr. Frank Kinsley left for Des Moines, Monday evening to attend a meeting of the Iowa Animal Health commission of which he is a member. He was accompanied by Mrs. C. Shepard, Deputy county auditor.

Mr. S. J. Peterson returned Tuesday from Pomona, Cal., where he has been spending the winter with his daughter, Miss Anna. Mrs. C. W. Cowles of Minneapolis has been in town for several days, the guest of Mrs. Ellsworth and her brother Mr. Harry Hunting. The government steamer Elinor passed down river Monday stopping opposite McGregor to place buoys at the ends of the wing dams.

The Rev. W. J. Devine has been conducting a mission at the Catholic church this week holding morning, afternoon and evening services. Rev. Devine is an eloquent speaker and has been drawing large audiences.

Dr. Amelia R. Sherman departed Thursday for Philadelphia to take post graduate work at the Woman's college of medicine. Her sister Miss Althea, who is taking a trip around the world, is traveling in southern Europe at the present time.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly denied, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of

INCIDENT SHOWS MEXICAN TRAITS

Careless Cruelty and Savage Fanaticism Part of Mexican Character

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.
(Staff correspondent of the United Press.)

MEXICO CITY, April 24.—Three Mexicans were hanging upon crosses, tied with ropes, in a small interior town, at Easter time, two years ago. It was the annual passion play of the village and the citizens were gathered around the crosses, lamenting over the dying Christ, who was personified by the man on the middle cross and cursing, in real round oaths the two thieves who were hung on either side.

The Mexicans, in the story of the two thieves, do not understand the moral of Christ offering redemption to the outcast pair at the last moment; instead, they believe that the thieves were placed beside Christ to make his death the more ignominious. And so, in all village passion plays, the thieves come in for a vast amount of execrations.

Strikes Bound Actor
In this particular instance the crowd, in its hatred of the thieves, got into a white hot revival heat against the thieves and one Mexican, a little drunker than the rest, suddenly shouted:

"Rateros, rateros," meaning "thieves, thieves," and dashed out from the crowd with a stick which he jabbed into the ribs of the innocent actor on the cross.

"Let me alone," shouted the tied up actor. "I am only acting. I am Juan Lopez and you know me well." His voice could not be heard above the clamor. The excited crowd only cheered on the man with the stick who gave the actor another thrust. The other thief began to shout for the police and the actor impersonating Christ joined in the declaration of the now injured "thief" that they were only acting.

"Thief" Faints
After another thrust or two the "thief" fainted and when the crowd saw that he really had been injured they quieted down enough so that the voice of the actor impersonating the Christ could be heard:

"Fools!" he shouted. "You have killed him. Let me down. I will not be the Christ any longer."

He was untied and the first thing he did when he got to the ground was to give a sound beating to the man with the stick. In the meantime the unconscious actor was taken down from the cross and removed to the village doctor's office. Two weeks in bed was the penalty he paid for his realistic acting.

There hasn't been an Easter passion play in this village for the past two years, for the simple reason that no one is willing to take the part of the thief.

Indian Childish
The childishness of the Mexican Indian—and there are 12,000,000 of him in Mexico, as against 4,000,000 real Mexicans—is illustrated at Easter time, by the manner in which he understands the Easter story.

His whole idea is not to mourn the death of Christ so much as to express his hatred of the men who brought it about. Good Friday, which in other lands is a day of mourning, is given over, by the Mexican, to showing his hatred of Judas.

Many thousands of tissue paper figures of Judas are sold in the cities and villages. These effigies are "lynched" in a village street, with great shouting and jeers. Then, for hours afterwards, men and boys throw sticks and stones at the effigies until they are torn to bits.

In the camps of all the soldiers Friday and Saturday before Easter, whether the soldiers were rebels or federals, it is safe to say that fighting was forgotten for a space of time, in order to give the Mexican an opportunity to give vent to hatred of Judas Iscariot.

Some people seem to have an idea that happiness, success and dollars are synonymous terms.

SHEPHERD SCORES A WORLD SCOOP

Mexico City United Press Correspondent Is Four Hours Ahead, with Vera Cruz Story

The rarest of newspaper accomplishments, a world scoop is scored to the credit of William G. Shepherd, staff correspondent of the United Press at Mexico City, who at 3:10 p. m. (Eastern time) Tuesday, more than four hours ahead of any other newspapermen, gave to the world the news that American marines had landed in Vera Cruz, and that the opening fight of the second war with Mexico was on. The achievement, which resulted in the state department at Washington getting its first news of the battle of Vera Cruz from the United Press, will go down in newspaper history as one of the greatest "scoops" of the generation.

Used Private Code
The beat was made possible, despite the Mexican censorship which for all other newspaper men was a tight, by resort to a simple private code employed by Shepherd and the New York office of the United Press. An innocent appearing message, relative to the shipment of some photographic films, addressed by Shepherd to a private address in New York did the trick, and while the correspondents of the other news agencies and newspapers in Mexico City were fuming over their inability to get their dispatches past the censor, United Press papers the country over were printing the news of the landing and attacking Vera Cruz. During this time rival agencies were seeking to discredit the story.

Hours before any rival agency had succeeded in getting a word or information through a second code message came through from Shepherd giving the first details of the actual fighting and of the course pursued by Admiral Fletcher's landing party. This second message was later supplemented by a message from Vera Cruz directly, where for several hours previous the resident correspondent of the United Press and all other correspondents had been trying in vain to get a message past the censor.

Shepherd's scoop, closely following his almost equally important one of last week—when he made the exclusive announcement that Huerta was going deliberately to force the United States to intervene—was the fifth beat scored by the United Press in six days, the other three events being the sending of the battleship fleet to Tampico, the attempted assassination of Mayor Mitchell of New York, and President Wilson's now famous "Until 6 p. m. Sunday" ultimatum.

The man who poses as a lion in society is usually a bear at home.

WOOD NO LONGER CHIEF OF STAFF

Army Commander's Term Ends and He Heads Department of the East

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The man whom Roosevelt dubbed "bully good soldier" and whom he advanced because of that belief in his ability, even though he was not a West Pointer, stepped down from the highest active position in the army Wednesday. He was Major General Leonard Wood, until today chief of staff of the army. Wood's four year term as the chief executive officer for the army automatically expired Wednesday. He immediately becomes chief of the department of the east, with headquarters at Governor's Island, New York—the choicest post in the army. W. W. Witherspoon, former assistant chief of staff, succeeds to Wood's post.

Wood's rise in the army has been spectacular. He was first heard of as colonel of the famous Rough Riders. He was a physician and an army surgeon, a man of extraordinary personal magnetism. Roosevelt picked him as an ideal type of commander. Personally he and Wood were cronies. Wood rode horseback like a centaur; so did Roosevelt. The Rough Riders dined famous after Santiago, and Wood also. He was called into the regular army and went ahead by leaps and bounds. His rapid promotion was the cause of considerable comment in the army, and was accentuated by the old fight between the "line and staff." As a surgeon in the army, Wood was of the staff faction. His rise to power made the West Pointers and others of the "line" faction peevish. But most of them were today willing to admit that the "physician" has done more for the army in his four years as chief of staff than any other one individual.

Not only did Wood have to buck opposition from the army, but he made powerful foes in congress by his firm stand in favor of abolition of a dozen or more army posts. The army posts have largely been distributed in the past as political favors rather than by strategic choice. It helped a congressman or a senator have a post in his district. But it resulted in the army being scattered all over the country. General Wood came out for mobilization of the standing forces into half a dozen—no more—concentration posts. He wanted to abandon isolated garrisons and keep the army near big centers.

Wood's greatest achievement as the head of the army was the development of the militia as an authorized auxiliary of the regular army. He has persistently boosted the "reserve enlistment" plan.

The retiring chief of staff is a fine figure of a man. He is over six feet in height, has the neck, arms and trunk of a gladiator, a face that is firm and purposeful, and makes a figure in the saddle like Mars himself. He walks with a slight limp, due to an injury.

MEXICANS LEAVE U. S. TO ENTER WAR

Mexican in the United States are just as anxious to reach their home country as Americans are to get out of Mexico. This was evidenced here today when a dozen Mexicans who have been residing in the Twin Cities passed through La Crosse en route for Mexico. All of the men declared their intention of joining in the war against the Americans as soon as they reach home soil.

Short Story

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Their eyes met, Jane's and those of the gentleman who walked down the aisle beside the superintendent. After she had passed Jane waited an instant, then turned, and after he had passed, the gentleman hesitated a moment—and turned. Their eyes met again!

And that was all. The remainder of the morning Jane sold books, made out slips and gave change, but at 12 o'clock she could not have told you just what she had been doing.

The days that followed were long ones for the novice in the book department. There were so many minutes to think. She wished they had put her anywhere else almost than where she was, for girls in other departments seemed to have little enough time to spare. It was likely that her knowledge of books and thorough education had something to do with it, and with the family almost depending on her now she had had to take the first thing that offered.

Then one morning the same gentleman came to buy a book. It took him a great while to select it. Several he gravely inspected upside down. Jane watched him quietly with amused eyes that became, however, shyly confused the instant he looked at her. And her cheeks were very rosy.

He finally picked up a "First Aid to Young Mothers," said he would take it, watched the color come and go in Jane's pretty cheeks as she went through the maneuvers attending the exchange of merchandise for the coin of the realm, and finally bade her "Good morning" and left the store.

And that was all for a long, long time. She had a very comfortable raise in her salary—a very surprising thing for a beginner. And after that it was so much easier at home. If she could keep things going for a year or two both boys would be out of school and able to take care of themselves.

Another thing that happened was merely a bit of information that came her way. The "gentleman" was Mr. Cyril Lowbridge.

After Jane heard that her eyes lost a certain expectant look, and her cheeks no longer flushed at the memory of a day. For the Lowbridges were not only the oldest and richest family in the city, but almost of the nation. They owned as many companies of different kinds as most people do of teaspoons, the store being one of them. And at the same time she read that Cyril Lowbridge and his sister had gone to Europe.

A year passed. Jane had become very beautiful, and her mother looked with approval upon the attentions of Gerald Armour, a young man who had already made a mark in the world of engineering. Jane liked him too, and knew Gerald loved her.

Then one Sunday in the spring, as they walked through a violet strewn valley, Gerald told her all about it, and Jane feeling sure that her extreme liking for him must be love, turned impulsively to answer. Then, suddenly, she shut her eyes for an instant. She saw a man turn as she turned, and the memory of that glance almost stopped her heart.

She shook her head slowly. "Don't, Gerald. I am sorry, but I do not love you." And later upon his anxious, heart-broken questioning, "Yes; there is some one."

Another year passed. The boys were out of school and doing well. Jane had steadily "gone up" at the store until she held a position of great responsibility.

The name Cyril Lowbridge was almost a myth to her now. Occasionally she heard of him and his sister as they roamed over the world.

Gerald Armour had married. It was spring again, and Jane seemed quite happy and contented with life. Melvin Gray was with her as much as Jane would allow. He was very much in love with her, as any one could see with half an eye.

Jane, knowing the symptoms and feeling that the time was short in which she must make up her mind, took herself to account. She hadn't loved Gerald, that was true—but the other? It was all so long ago and so perfectly foolish and unreasonable. Anything so wild and unfounded could not be love. Surely this feeling she had for Melvin was the real love, the right kind, the wholesome kind that would last. Yes, when he asked her she would tell him she loved him and would marry him.

When Melvin did tell her, and Jane had "Yes" on her lips, there flashed across her brain the vision of a man turning and looking into her eyes. Then to his dismay, she sadly shook her head and drew away her hand. "Melvin, I—I can't. There is—some one."

And another year passed. One showery night in the spring Jane waited for a street car. A line of automobiles passed between herself and the track, and at last was halted by the corner policeman on account of cross traffic.

A magnificent limousine stopped directly in front of her, so close that she had to step back to avoid the wheel. It had only one occupant beside the chauffeur—a man. He turned and saw Jane.

Instantly she recognized him, and as their glances met through the glass, each noticed the light that sprang into the other's eyes. Jane's heart pounded all her blood up into

DUFFY CALLS BOUT WHEN FULTON FOULS

Hits Opponent while Down; Defoe Licks Coffey by Shade in Hudson Battle

Referee Duffy called another fight Thursday when he awarded an eight round battle to Carciofini at Hudson when Fulton, the Minneapolis heavy, landed on the Italian's jaw while the latter was on one knee. Fulton and Carciofini appeared in the preliminaries of the Wolgast-Tillman bout.

The Minneapolis scrapper had the advantage of his opponent at every stage of the game and sent him to the floor in the fifth with a right to the stomach. Carciofini arose to his knees and started to wait for the count of nine but Fulton immediately planted another to the jaw. The disqualification followed.

Defoe of Red Wing and Coffey of St. Paul scrapped for ten rounds with Defoe winning by reason of his aggressiveness and general anxiety to make a fight of it. He had the shade in two rounds, while Coffey boxed him even in the remainder. Coffey had a shellup Defoe could not penetrate, and was exceedingly clever in his ducking and hitting in the clinches and in coming out of the corners and lamming Defoe as he came. Despite the fact that the pair fought like two terriers, either man was marked to any extent at the close of the bout.

SPOTLIGHTS

'DAMAGED GOODS'

Eugene Brieux's tremendous sociological drama, "Damaged Goods" as presented by Richard Bennett and his original company of co-workers, will be presented at the La Crosse Theatre, Monday night April 27th.

"Damaged Goods" enjoys the distinction of having received the enthusiastic endorsement of social workers, educators and clergymen. It is a powerful study of the social disease, and pleads in militant fashion for a health certificate with every marriage license. The theme of the play is one which has been taboo on the stage for centuries, but so frank and sincere is the treatment that it disarms adverse criticism.

The story of the play centers in the disaster which befalls a young man who marries in defiance of his physician's warning that he is unfit physically to assume the responsibility of parenthood.

Being agreeable is easier than argument, besides paying better.

BADGER BASEBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHT

MADISON, Wis., April 25.—Pendant hopes ran wild today on the campus following Wisconsin's victory over Indiana, 3 to 1 in the opening game of the conference season. The sensational hurling of "Lefty" Neenschwander and his timely hitting coupled with Jewett's bingle in the eighth and wretched fielding on the part of Minton, the Hoosier's center fielder, were responsible for the Badger win.

Neenschwander pitched great ball in spite of the chill weather. He struck out eleven opponents and allowed but six scattered hits. He was easily superior to Schultz, the best pitcher in the "Big Nine" last year.

The game was full of thrills. Boulevard, Wisconsin's right fielder, at one juncture dashed over the foul line and scooped up a long hit with one hand. Anderson, the visitor's left fielder, duplicated the feat on a fair ball later in the game. Hoppert was king at the bat with three hits.

GOVERNOR AT BALL

MADISON, Wis., April 25.—Governor F. E. McGovern and Adjutant General Orlando Holway will attend the military ball given by the university battalion at the armory to-night. Strict military form will prevail during the evening, and both reveille and retreat will be accompanied by a battery of eight guns. Permission was given by the chief of police.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Elves Discover the Game of Marbles

"Have you marbles?" they asked.

JACK and Evelyn had been getting out their marbles for the season. When daddy came in he saw them all in a big box on the table. "Have you commenced your games yet?" he asked.

"That's fine," said daddy. "But the elves have beaten you out, for they had their first game several days ago."

"The elves?" said Evelyn. "Do they play marbles? How did they happen to think of playing marbles?"

"You see, it was this way," daddy continued—"the elves, as you know, have just quantities of games that little boys and girls never even dream of playing. But sometimes the elves think it would be fun to play a game that is a special favorite with little boys and girls."

"One day two little elves were flitting about near the village, off the woods where they lived most of the time. They suddenly spied a lot of little boys playing a game with little round things made of glass."

"What are they, I wonder?" said the first elf.

"I haven't the remotest idea," said the second elf.

"At that moment a little boy exclaimed to another, 'You've won, and you'll get most of the marbles.'"

"Marbles, marbles!" said the first elf. "Those funny round things must be called marbles!"

"That's certainly what they must be," said the second elf. "Let's get some and take them home to the other elves, and we can have a brand new game. I watched them playing, and I am sure I understand the game perfectly, so I can explain it to the other elves. You understand it, too, don't you?"

"Oh, yes," said the second elf.

"So together they went to a little shop. It was the only shop the elves ever went to, and that was because it was kept by a funny, mysterious old man, and it was near the woods."

"Have you marbles?" they asked the old man.

"Dear me, so you think you would like to play the beloved spring game of little boys and very often little girls? Well, here's a fine collection for you of all colors and for all the elves," he replied.

"The little elves thanked the old man and went home to the Silver Stream, where they lived. Then they told all the other elves of the new game, and the elves thought it was a wonderful discovery."

SPIRITED REPLY FROM "TOM" MORRIS

Signer of Call for Special Session Says Right of Petition Is Fundamental to Government

DOUBTS MCGOVERN'S POLITICS

Points Out That He Masqueraded as a Republican and Turned Bull Moose at Chicago

Criticism by Gov. McGovern of the four state officers who presented him a petition asking the calling of a special session of the legislature to reduce taxes brought a spirited reply from Lieutenant Gov. Thomas Morris here today. He says that the right of petition is fundamental in government. He also questions the governor's republicanism.

"I merely want to say that it is to be regretted that the governor has displayed temper in passing upon the petition for a special session of the legislature," said Mr. Morris. "It was to be hoped that he would consider the matter calmly, dispassionately, without regard to who the petitioners were, and certainly without political considerations. Now that he has taken occasion to chastise the men who signed the petition, it might be well for him to remember that our bill of rights guarantees to the humblest citizen the right to what was done. What he seems to regard as 'lese majesty' was in fact nothing more nor less than the exercise of the right plainly guaranteed by the constitution to all men alike."

Is He Republican?

"It will be remembered that the governor joined forces with Roosevelt at Chicago, notwithstanding he ran and was elected a La Follette delegate, and that he was commissioned by the republicans of the state to support Senator La Follette's candidacy for president; and that he afterwards waited until he had been safely nominated for governor, in the republican primaries, before announcing his disaffection to the republican party and avowing his allegiance with the Bull Moose. It will also be remembered that he undertook to remove Mr. Ekern, one of the big insurance commissioners of the country, without justifiable cause or excuse as the supreme court subsequently held, after Mr. Ekern, as the evidence in the senate investigation disclosed, refused to follow him and desert La Follette for Roosevelt. Again, among the many other things that have never been satisfactorily explained, he refused to attend the republican dinner at Madison, given during the last session of the legislature, for the purpose of promoting progressive republican principles and policies in the state and in the nation."

TEACHER AGENCIES TO BE REGULATED

MADISON, Wis., April 25.—Rules to prevent the well known abuses of teachers' agencies, such as fee splitting, and the collecting of fees where no service is rendered will be promulgated by the state industrial commission upon facts presented at a hearing before the commission yesterday. At the last session of the legislature a law was enacted empowering the industrial commission to regulate all employment agencies.

ECZEMA SPREAD ALL OVER BODY

Roxbury, Ohio.—"When my little boy was two weeks old he began breaking out on his cheeks. The eczema began just with pimples and they seemed to itch so badly he would scratch his face and cause a matter to run. Wherever that matter would touch, it would cause another pimple until it spread all over his body. It caused disfigurement while it lasted. He had fifteen places on one arm and his head had several. The deepest places on his cheeks were as large as a silver dollar on each side. He was so restless at night we had to put mittens on him to keep him from scratching them with his finger nails. He could not sleep because I put those mittens on which would not allow him to scratch and then he would wake up and be cross. If he got a little too warm at night it seemed to hurt badly."

"We tried a treatment and he didn't get any better. He had the eczema about three weeks when we began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed him at night with the Cuticura Soap and spread the Cuticura Ointment on and the eczema left." (Signed) Mrs. John White, Mar. 19, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

WRITE STORIES FOR MOVING PICTURE PLAYS

New, Spare-time Profession for Men and Women—One Man Makes $3,500 in Six Months

Owing to the large number of new motion picture theaters which are being opened throughout the country, there is offered to the men and women of today, a new profession, namely, that of writing moving picture plays. Producers are paying from $25 to $150 for each scenario accepted, upon which they can build a photo play.

$3,500 in Six Months
As it only requires a few hours' time to construct a complete play, you can readily see the immense possibilities in this work. One man, who gave the idea a tryout, writes that he earned $3,500 in six months. It is possible for an intelligent person to meet with equal success.

One feature of the business which should appeal to everyone, is that the work may be done at home in spare time. No literary ability is required and women have as great an opportunity as men. Ideas for plots are constantly turning up, and may be put in scenario form and sold for a good price.

propriation bills, without any opportunity for the legislature to pass them over his head. And he chooses to assume the responsibility, whether the people desire to depend upon the stability of his policy or not.

The reason that so much legislative power is vested in the executive, by constitution, by law and by practical necessity, is the inadequacy of our present legislative system. It is only a question of time, after the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall, when the legislature will be a small membership, one house, continuous session body, with the present power of the executive, both legally and practically, much curtailed. This movement will be nation wide, having already begun in at least two states, Kansas and Oregon, and will extend to the national government, where also we are having an unusual exhibition of the actual assumption of legislative functions by the executive. One man government, in this country, be it by a Cannon or a Wilson, inevitably must end in disaster.

THE WAR IN COLORADO

So occupied is this country with the ponderous weight of the conflict with Mexico that little attention is given a domestic war which, because of the great question of liberty involved, is truly of more far reaching importance.

Controlled by the Rockefeller and Guggenheim interests, the state of Colorado is sending troops to shoot down striking miners and murder their women and children.

What happened in Lawrence less than a year ago was fit only for Russia. What is happening in Colorado today would shame that morbid despotism. Justice, powerless, stands with averted face while the tyranny of dollars despoils a people's rights.

Why are armored trains permitted to exist in Colorado? Is not their very existence a confession of premeditated assassination? What need have law abiding interests of these cruisers of the rail? Only in anticipation of lawlessness and violence could they have been provided.

Possession of a burglar's kit of tools is accepted by our courts as evidence of crime; why is not the possession of an armored train sufficient evidence of rapine?

This country has a federal army of more than ninety thousand men.
The need in Mexico is pressing, but a regiment could easily be spared.
While we proceed with benign purpose to the pacification of a bleeding sister nation, shall we not pacify our own commonwealths? Cleveland did not hesitate to send federal troops into Illinois to protect the slave-driving Pullman corporation.
The precedent is established. President Wilson can with perfect propriety rescue the people of Colorado from the dictatorial grasp of the marauding oil king.

TOO MUCH POWER IN THE EXECUTIVE

(By J. M. WYLIE)

Aside from the advisability of a special session, the denial of the petition confirms the conviction that alternative power to call a special session should be vested in members of the legislature, and perhaps in the people.

A mere voluntary expression which can not decide, is of little value as an index to public opinion. People usually care to act only when their action decides, and when they have delegated power that they can not recall, let the agent assume its full measure. Under these circumstances a small expression is likely to indicate a much greater sentiment.

A governor hesitates to call together a legislature he cannot dominate, no matter how great the public necessity, especially if he is a candidate at a coming election. He is likely to see only the politics in the situation, and is not to be too strongly condemned for that weakness on the eve of a campaign crucial to his own political career. And then, suppose the governor to be guilty of an offense for which he should be impeached and removed. Only he can call the legislature together for that purpose. Will he do it? Of course, this last situation will be corrected by the adoption of the recall.

After reading the governor's vol-umnous answer to the petition, and taking his statements as to his power to prevent the expending of money appropriated, one can not see that he needs any greater item veto power. He claims a most remarkable veto power of items in ap-

Got Real Nerve
Before the passage of the present strict banking laws in one of our newer states starting a bank was a comparatively small amount of capital needed is well illustrated by the story a prosperous country town banker told on himself when asked how he happened to enter banking business:

"Well, he said, 'I didn't have much else to do, so I rented an empty store building and painted 'bank' on the window. The first day I was open for business a man came in and deposited $100 with me, the second day another man dropped in and deposited $250, and so, by George, along about the third day I got confidence enough in the bank to put in $100 myself!'"—Ex.

"Well, I guess it will soon be time to haul out the old water wagon, give it a fresh coat of paint and start it

"And how is that?"

"The farther it goes, the lighter it gets."

Not So Slow After All
At one time a German university developed the mania for conferring tor named MacTavish, who had obtained his degree by diligent labor, became disgusted. He sent a polite letter to the faculty, asking them to bestow a degree upon his servant.

Jocose nature of the request was not suspected, so the parchment was ac-

After acknowledging its receipt, the physician added that, since they were so kind as to give his servant

the joke once fairly scented, rose to the occasion.

His Chance at Last

The struggling young author made

"Do you want to know?"
"Elsa!"

"Well, I love this man Warrington and he loves me. But he has gone. Can't you see? Don't you understand? Have you been as blind as I? He is Paul Ellison, Arthur's brother, his twin brother. And they obliterated him. It is Arthur who is the ghost, Martha, the phantom. Ah, I have caused you a good deal of worry, and I am going to cause you yet more. I am going to Saigon; up and down the world, east and west, until I find him. Shall I go alone, or will you go with me?"

Then Martha did what ever after endeared her to the heart of the stricken girl; she mothered her.
"Elsa, my baby! Of course I shall go with you, always. For you could not love any man if he was not worthy."

Then followed the strangest quest doubtless ever made by a woman.
From Singapore to Saigon, up to Bangkok, down to Singapore again;
to Batavia, over to Hongkong, Shanghai, Peking, Manila, Hongkong again, then Yokohama. Patient and hopeful, Elsa followed the bewildering trail. She left behind her many puzzled hotel managers and booking agents; for it was not usual for a beautiful young woman to go about the world, inquiring for a blond man with a parrot. Sometimes she was only a day late. Many cablegrams she sent, but upon her arrival in each port she found that these had not been called for. Over these heartbreaking disappointments she uttered no complaint. The world was big and wide; he it never so big and wide, Elsa knew that some day she would find him.

In the daytime there was quest; but, ah! the nights, the interminable hours of inaction, the spaces of time in which she could only lie back and think. Up and down the coast, across islands, over seas, the journey took her, until one day in July she found herself upon the pillared veranda of the house in which her mother had been born.

XX

The Two Brothers
From port to port, sometimes not stepping off the boat at all, moody, restless and irritable, Warrington wended his way home.
There was nothing surprising in the fact that he never inquired for mail.
Who was there to write? Besides,
he sought only the obscure hotels, where he was not likely to meet any of his erstwhile fellow passengers.
The mockery and uselessness of his home-going became more and more apparent as the days slipped by.
Often he longed to fly back to the jungles, to James, and leave matters as they were. Here and there along the way, he had tried a bit of luxury; but the years of economy and frugality had robbed him of the ability to enjoy it. He was going home... to what? Surely there would be no welcome for him at his journey's end. He would return after the manner of prodigals in general, not scriptural, to find that he was not wanted. Of his own free will he had gone out of their lives.

He fought grimly against the thought of Elsa; but he was not strong enough to vanquish the longings from his heart and mind. Always when alone she was in fancy with him, now smiling amusedly into his face, now peering down at the phosphorescence seething alongside, now standing with her chin uplifted, her eyes half shut, letting the strong winds strike full her face. Many a "good night" he sent over the seas. An incident; that would be all.

His first day in New York left him with nothing more than a feeling of foreboding and oppression.
The expected exhilaration of returning to the city of his birth did not materialize. So used to open spaces was he, to distances and the circle of horizons, that he knew he no longer belonged to the city with Himalayan gorges and canons, whose torrents were human beings and whose glaciers were the hearts of these. A great loneliness bore down on him. For months he had been drawing familiar pictures, and to find none of these was like coming home to an empty house. The old life was indeed gone; there were no threads to resume. A hotel stood where his club had been; the house in which he had spent his youth was no more. He wanted to leave the city; and the desire was with difficulty overcome.

Early the second morning he started down-town to the office of the Andes Construction Company. He was extraordinarily nervous. Cold sweat continually moistened his palms. Change, change, everywhere change. Trinity was like an old friend. When the taxicab driver threw off the power and indicated with a jerk of his head a granite shaft that soared up into the blue, Warrington asked: "What place is this?"

"The Andes building, sir. The construction company occupies the top floor."

"Very good," replied Warrington, paying and discharging the man.

From a reliquary of the Dutch,
an affair of redbrick, four stories high, this monolith had sprung.

With a sigh Warrington entered the cavernous doorway and stepped into an "express elevator." When the car arrived at the twenty-second paused before the door of the vice-president. He recalled the "old man," thinlipped, blue-eyed, eruptive. It was all very strange, this request to make the restitution in person. Well he would soon learn why.

He drew the certified check from his wallet and scrutinized it carefully. Twelve thousand, eight hundred dollars. He replaced it, opened the door, and walked in. A boy met him at the railing and briskly inquired his business.

"I wish to see Mr. Elmore."

"Your card."

Card? Warrington had not possessed such a thing in years. "I have no cards with me. But I have an appointment with Mr. Elmore.
Tell him that Mr. Ellison is here."

It is said that the truth will out—and it seems to be always out of some people.

More Than Dollars

Your bank account means more than dollars on deposit.

It represents the results of labor, human energy, ambition and persistence.

There is a fine sentiment in saving money because it is our one way of storing up these virtues.

To be able, at the end of the year, to say, "I have saved so many dollars," is the equivalent of measuring the profit of the year's living and labor.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, April 25.—The general feeling in the grain market today was bullish. A strong tone was apparent in wheat all morning, starting with the opening. May wheat was up 1/4c at the close and July unchanged.
A number of shorts were made nervous by the strength in corn and were indisposed to go home short over Sunday.

The corn market had a sharp advance early and held most of it.
Further torrential rains in Argentine, predictions from there when receipts would be light for three weeks, arrival of demand at Kansas City where good cash sales were made over night, and sales out of store here to industrial consumers helped values. May corn closed up 1/2c and July up 3/4c.
Oats was a little higher than corn, continual favorable weather in most of the big oats states counted against the demand.

Provisions were a trifle easier later but rallied and finished higher.

GUARD BRIDGE AT NUEVO LAREDO

LAREDO, Tex., April 25.—Using a moving picture projecting machine, a locomotive with an electric headlight and many bonfires for illumination, the United States troops guarded the approaches to the railroad and international bridges here all night, fearing a renewal of an attempt to dynamite them by the Mexican federal soldiers.

The fire loss in Nuevo Laredo will amount to fully half a million dollars. The city is devastated. Before leaving, the federal soldiers announced that they intend to burn every town between Nuevo Laredo and Monterrey, rather than see them fall into the hands of the United States.

MEXICAN GIRL SUICIDES
NEW YORK, April 25.—Because

Petra Mia, a 19 year old Mexican girl, committed suicide. Her hat, jacket and a farewell note were found on the wharf. A watchman saw her leap but all efforts to rescue her failed.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The renewed break on the Stock exchange today may perhaps be most accurately described as the aftermath of yesterday's decline in Europe. This curious coincidence—if coincidence it was—left it open to dispute how far the weakness here directly reflected the Mexican situation. There can, however, be no doubt that the weakening of the market, from whatever specific cause, gave inducement and opportunity for urging the demonstrations into the shape of the traditional "war market." There was no further development of an unfavorable nature in the Mexican news today, and Europe bought in our market at the opening, instead of selling. Nevertheless, although the prices of many stocks started out at a fractional recovery, the selling movement was at once resumed, and on active trading, prices fell a point or thereabouts throughout the list.
Towards the close, a moderate recovery ensued, and the stock market ended steadier and more quiet.

Will Irwin Says United Press,
The Tribune's Telegraph News Service, Excels all Competitors

Tribune readers often ask us why our telegraph news is more interesting than that of competitors, why it seems to breathe life, to have pulse and feeling. We answer, because we have the leased wire service of the United Press, of which the only competitor is the unanimated Associated Press. It is a young service by young men against an old service by old men.

That is our judgment, and it is corroborated by the testimony of every metropolitan paper which, having both the United Press and Associated Press services, is in a position to compare item with item, day after day. It is also the judgment of the famous journalist and magazine writer, Will Irwin, witness the following, his contribution to the current Harper's Weekly:

THE UNITED PRESS
By Will Irwin

It used to be said in the beginning that the United Press, as compared with the Associated Press, was technically crude. I am not so sure of that. These young men might not have so much understanding of rhetoric or so much appreciation of a balanced sentence; but they were able, by the character of their instructions, to put something of their own feelings into their news reports. They expressed characteristically the popular point of view. In reporting the affairs of Europe, for example, the world-renowned correspondents of the Associated Press had given the traditional old accounts of debates in Parliament and of war rumors on the Continent. The United Press tried to find and print news concerning the common people of Europe—what they were thinking and doing, what part they had in great events.
This instance has often been cited as illustrating the difference between the two bureaus;
and it is worth citing again:
When King George was crowned at Westminster, the Associated Press reported the pomp and parade of the event, told of the massed regiments, the cheering crowds, the splendid mediaeval ceremony in the Abbey. The United Press did that and more;
it tried to find just how much of the chering in the crowds was real enthusiasm and how much false; it pictured the hungry mob of Whitechapel pouring out to see their King pass; it showed the outcasts struggling for the food dropped from the picnic-baskets of more fortunate spectators. Here was the point of view in action, if I may be allowed to mix metaphors. The "unbiased" Associated Press men did not know that they were biased when they failed to see the significance of this fight for broken victuals.

The new bureau has worked on the same principles at home.
If you wanted to understand the workers' side of the strike

What Mr. Irwin says about the way in which the United Press handled the coronation of King George and the Lawrence strike is more strikingly true of the present Mexican war. At the hazard of his life his Mexico City correspondent, William G. Shepherd, smuggled through the censorship the cipher dispatch, which gave President Wilson and the world the first news of Huerta's deliberate purpose to force intervention. Shepherd continued at his post, knowing that betrayal meant death, and barely avoided an attempt to seize him when he came out with the refugees yesterday.

With the snap of youth, the daring of hot blooded zeal, the sense of the future born of feeling in the present, the young men of the United Press have given us, day after day, the big news from a half hour to many hours before our competitors.

It is an astounding refutation of the charge that the zeal of the United Press leads it to inaction, that while it has not had to correct a single important error, its competitor has been guilty of two colossal blunders—the untrue announcement Thursday that Villa was marching on El Paso with 15,000 men (he was on his way to visit his wife at Juarez with an escort of fifteen men) and the bulletin Friday that Vera Cruz had been recaptured by the Mexicans.

SMITH ROADHOUSE CLOSED FOR YEAR

Linley Law Is Applied to Notorious Resort in the Town of Campbell
Today

The Cord Smith road house in the town of Campbell was closed under the Linley law this morning by order of the court. This action was taken as a sequel to the recent robbery of a wealthy Californian in the resort and the subsequent escape made by the owner and bartender.

The Smith road house has been operation for years and was one of the most notorious resorts in this part of the country. Following the escape of Smith and his assistant, by means of an overland trip, in an automobile, the house was closed with the consent of Smith's wife.

Under the provisions of the Linley law, any resort proven to have been used for immoral purposes can be ordered closed for a period of one year. Under no circumstances can the Smith house be opened for any purpose within the next year, as a result of the order of the court this morning.

EVANSTON, Ill., April 25.—(Special.)—Merton Klaus, a senior at Northwestern university here, and son of Rev. John H. Klaus, pastor at the First German M. E. church, La Crosse, Wis., is one of the students who has enlisted in a volunteer regiment to fight in Mexico if the call comes.

The war spirit has enthused the students at the university and they were urged by President Harris to form the company.

Klaus is the only survivor of the drowning horror of last summer when two girls and a boy were drowned at the head of Pettibone island when a row boat was sucked under a government barge anchored there.

"MOTORCYCLE MIKE" GROSS TREED BY ANGRY BULL

His path barred by a snorting, husky bull, A. H. Gross, local bicycle man abandoned his motorcycle on the road near Winona, Minn., Wednesday and climbed the nearest tree. There he remained until the rural owner appeared and drove his property into a nearby corral.

Gross was speeding along the country road bedecked in a red sweater and seated on a red Indian motorcycle. The bull, grazing by the wayside, spotted the color and with a bellow charged onto the road. With lowered head, dilated nostrils and fore feet planted apart he awaited the approach of the "red devil."

Gross, not a farmer by either birth or occupation, saw no honor in emulating the matadors who daily entertain the blood-thirsty president of turbulent Mexico.

He laid the cycle on its side with engine running and "shinned" up the nearest tree.

"The bull won't hurt you," advised the farmer, sometime later. "You better neck he want," said Gross. "He's not goin' to get the chance."

MEXICO CITY RULED BY ANTI-AMERICA MOB

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Arrest of several Americans before Charge O'Shaughnessy's train left Mexico City was reported in state department dispatches from Consul Canada today. The report said that J. Starr Hunt and family with several other Americans were taken from the train at Mexico City before it started.

At La Villa, the first station outside of Mexico City, Burton Wilson, believed to be an American, was likewise arrested.

The O'Shaughnessy party reported to Consul Canada that "a perfect reign of terror" prevailed at Mexico City. They confirm the story that the Washington statue was pulled down by a mob.

Mrs. Anna Novitzka Complaints of Beatings and Alleged Threats of Death

Mrs. Anna Novitzka appeared in court this morning asking a divorce from her husband, declaring that he beats and mistreats her and the children, has threatened to kill her and that she fears to live with him longer. They were married thirty-five years ago. Her attorney attributes Novitzka's alleged actions to insane jealousy.

Judge Higbee is holding judgment in abeyance until such time as a property statement is submitted for a division of the property.

Case Dismissed
Mrs. Ella McIntosh of Viroqua, asked for a divorce from her husband, A. L. McIntosh, on the grounds of desertion. The action was dismissed owing to lack of jurisdiction, as the plaintiff has not resided in the state for a sufficient length of time.

Gets a Year
One year in the state's prison at Waupun was the sentence passed upon Samuel Glennie in circuit court this morning for obtaining money under false pretense.

Glennie Obtained $1.50
The testimony showed that he had posed as a subscription agent of the Curtis Publishing company of Philadelphia and started a subscription campaign in Trempealeau, offering the Saturday Evening Post and Ladies Home Journal for $1.50 a year. Glennie signed up Dr. E. D. Pierce and then was arrested.

When arraigned for preliminary hearing he waived examination, at that time explaining that he was acting as a sub-agent and had no intention of defrauding.

Refused Jury Trial
Judge E. C. Higbee this morning gave Glennie an opportunity to change his plea of guilty and stand trial before a jury in July. Convicted that he would receive no more leniency by standing trial, he refused to change his plea and sentence was passed.

Invasion Impends
Officials at the navy department confidentially admitted that if Americans have been killed or if any considerable portion are besieged by mobs it may be necessary to rush an expedition of blue jackets and marines inland from Vera Cruz with orders to enter the capital at any cost. They hope the hand of the United States will not be forced until Funston and his men, especially the artillery, can get to Vera Cruz. They admit that the situation is fraught with the gravest danger and that it may be changed at a moment's notice.

OUTRAGE RUMORS DISTURB WILSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The attention of officialdom of the United States was fixed today on Mexico City. A situation paralleling that at Pekin during the boxer uprising exists, Rumors of outrages against foreigners, of Americans falling victims to the blood lust of Mexican peons inflamed by drink are rife, but cannot be confirmed so long as Huerta holds the other end of the wires leading into the Mexican capital.

Despite Secretary of State Bryan's insistence that he believed Huerta would try to protect the 800 Americans who are still in his capital, the state department is vainly trying to get into communication with Mexico City through the Brazilian embassy and other embassies here.

The admitted fact that Huerta had refused to permit all Americans to accompany O'Shaughnessy, and that all Americans had been disarmed by the dictator's direct orders had a very sinister sound. There are fears that certain men were singled out to be kept in the capital.

Invasion Impends
Officials at the navy department confidentially admitted that if Americans have been killed or if any considerable portion are besieged by mobs it may be necessary to rush an expedition of blue jackets and marines inland from Vera Cruz with orders to enter the capital at any cost. HUERTA SEIZES AMERICAN ARMS

EVERY SMALL TOWN TO HOLD THE AMERICAN CIVILIANS AS HOSTAGES.

Strips Americans of Arms

Huerta ordered that the homes of all Americans be searched for arms and Thursday night the American residents of all hotels were stripped of arms. The protectorate established by Sir Lionel Carden, the British ambassador, was unavailing in this matter, as the vindictive dictator was determined Americans should have no means of defense in case of an uprising against them, which he will accept as a demonstration of sympathy and support for him.

The newspapers of the capital have issued the wildest extras. One advised the "chopping up of the dogs."

On a railroad embankment running through a tropic swamp and with the sky-line marked by cocoanut trees, the transfer of the O'Shaughnessy party from the Huerta train to the American lines was made last night. A mile of up-train track separated the American train from the Mexican.

Captain H. McL. P. Huse, carrying a flag of truce, proceeded across the open space alone. As he approached the Mexicans, he waved his white flag, as well as a Mexican flag which he carried. Colonel Carona had gone out to meet him and half way between the lines they met.

Colonel Carona and Captain Huse shook hands in friendly fashion and the Mexican officer said:

"I deliver by the order of my president the American charge d'affaires, the American consul, and their staffs."

Captain Huse, shaking hands with O'Shaughnessy and Shanklin, thanked Carona and then said:

Fletcher Would Exchange
"I have brought to the line on my train a large number of Mexicans who desire to leave Vera Cruz. Admiral Fletcher desires me to say he understands many Americans are in the capital who wish to depart. He would be pleased to open passenger traffic both ways between the two cities. As an earnest appeal he desires me to turn over to you the wife and daughter of General Maas."

At this point Colonel Carona greeted both women, who are relatives of Huerta. Carona had been especially ordered by the dictator to secure them in trade for O'Shaughnessy and other members of the diplomatic staff. Huse then permitted 250 Mexican refugees to cross the American line.

"Perhaps you can now make arrangements for the departure of Americans from Mexico," said O'Shaughnessy, addressing Colonel Carona.

Carona smiled and bowed politely, but replied:

Takes Embassy Autos
Carona's attitude changed entirely after he reached the Mexican train with the Maas women. He held the train only long enough to permit the removal of Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, her son, their baggage and one automobile. He then said he must hurry, and departed with two automobiles belonging to the embassy still on the train. Carona promised to send the automobiles to the American lines Saturday. Two hours had elapsed, from the time the Mexican train arrived, when Colonel Carona ordered his train to start the return trip to Mexico City and the American party was being bundled aboard the train which bore them to Vera Cruz and safety.

3,057 REFUGEES ARE COMING HOME

Dozen Ships in Gulf Today
Are Headed for Galveston with Americans

BY BOND P. GEDDES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 25.—On a dozen ships in the gulf today with crews turned toward Galveston are 3,057 refugees from Mexico, many of them destitute. The vanguard of 329 was due to arrive today at Galveston on the collier Cyclops. About 1300 more will leave Mexican points for Galveston, within a week.

Ready for Reception
Reserves of the navy, the army and Red Cross were massed, preparing for the fugitives. The refugee question is most difficult now, Admiral Badger cabled today from Vera Cruz. From Tampico alone 1,954 refugees have been sent to Galveston. Those arriving today on the Cyclops were from Tampico. They have waited many days on the British and the American war ships for passage back to "the states."

The battleship Connecticut with 419 refugees is due at Galveston on Sunday, as is the Esperanza with 140 from Vera Cruz and 220 picked up at Tampico. The Dixie is also due at Galveston Sunday or Monday with 576 more from Tampico.

Galveston Landing Point
Galveston is to be made the landing point for all refugees from the coast of Mexico. Receiving camps and hospitals will be provided by the government. Food and clothing supplied and free transportation furnished to their home cities.

Other refugee ships enroute to Galveston today are:

The Mexico, with a capacity load of 600 from Vera Cruz; the collier Jason, with 50 from Tuxpam; the chartered British steamer Trinidad with 275 from Tampico; a yacht of the Huasteca company with 100 employees and 50 other refugees from Tampico; two torpedo destroyers accompanying the Dixie with fifty each, and the Texan, the Dakota and the Oregonian of the Hawaiian steamship company with 200 Americans from Puerto, Mexico.

The Trinidad is loading 275 more today at Tampico. The Pauling and Patterson sailed today from Tuxpam with about 100 more each.

Many Waiting for Rescue
Many refugees are reported waiting at Mazatlan, Progreso, Frontera and Yucatan. Few more are expected at Tampico.

At Vera Cruz Admiral Badger has chartered the Monterey and the refugee depot ship to care for those expected from Mexico City and other interior points to avoid placing the refugees on the war ships.

The supply ship Celtic loaded with food and clothing has sailing orders today to relieve those fleeing from Mexico City. Another supply ship will be chartered by the navy and sent from New York early next week.

FRANCISCAN SISTER DIES
Sister M. Sabina Finger, a sister of the Franciscan order, died yesterday afternoon of a complication of diseases at the St. Francis hospital at the age of 65 years. Services will be held Monday morning at eight o'clock at St. Rose convent, Rev. K. G. Beyer officiating. Burial will be made in the Catholic cemetery.

CHARITIES REPORT
The monthly report of the Associated Charities shows 36 cases handled by the visiting nurse. At the monthly meeting D. C. Dewey, humane officer was commended for his work during the month. A short discussion regarding the 1914 tag day took place but no definite action towards preparation was taken.

NOTED COMEDY IN TABLOID SHAPE

What will happen next? Will "The Merry Widow," "The Rose Maid," and "The Prince of Pilsen" be tabloided and presented at popular prices? This seems likely with the announcement that "The Girl from Luxemburg" is coming here in condensed form and at ridiculously low prices. If the tabloiding process can be worked on "The Girl from Luxemburg" there should be no difficulty in handling the other musical comedies named.

"The Girl from Luxemburg" retains the original production and many of the original company. It is proclaimed the most elaborate of the new style attractions. Every report pronounces it superior in every respect. Every newspaper writer marvels that such a show can be offered at the prevailing tabloid prices. The first act of "The Girl from Luxemburg" takes place on board a ship, it will be remembered. This elaborate special scenery is carried.

The finale is a water scene with the chorus girls struggling in the waves, said to be the most novel stage effect ever employed. The second act takes place at Coney Island, New York, which gives further opportunity for elaborate scenic equipment. The coming of "The Girl from Luxemburg" can be anticipated with unusual pleasure. A visit to the theater can hardly result in disappointment. The show comes here on Sunday, April 26 and will be seen at the Majestic theater which is now devoted to the tabloid form of entertainment.

COMPANY B. ADDS THIRTEEN ROOKIES

Expect to Be Recruited Up to Full War Strength of 108 Within the Next Week

ORDERED TO LOOK UP LIVE STOCK

Capt. Fowler Gets Word to Get in Touch with Owners of Riding and Draft Horses and Mules

Thirteen new members have been added to Company B, Third regiment, Wisconsin National guard within the last two weeks. The company now numbers in the neighborhood of 75 and will probably be recruited to full war strength of 108 men within the next week if not ordered to mobilize in the mean time.

New Recruits
The new recruits are: Elmer W. Vollmar, Louis Raith, Leo M. Wurz, Harry Lee, Frank Niedbalski, George Hafner, Arthur Wojahn, Charles Frederickson, John W. Solter, George Lintelman, Walter Liebel, Lester Aiken and Cornelius Selbo. Of these men Aiken and Selbo were former members of the company but were discharged at the expiration of their term during the last year. Harry H. Kagel last night made application for enlistment.

The Company B armory last night presented a scene of activity as the members of the company busied themselves preparing their equipment, polishing their rifles and procuring such supplies as possible from the quartermaster.

Asks for Revolvers
Captain John Bradley made application to Major Williams, quartermaster general at Camp Douglas today for revolvers for the company. No arrangements have been made, as far as Captain Bradley knows, to supply the company with new revolvers and the old arms have been called in. At present the company is with out small arms which should be supplied before the company is called out.

After Horses and Mules.
A communication was received yesterday afternoon by Capt. Fowler of M company from Major Williams, chief of the quartermaster corps at Camp Douglas with instructions to get in touch with instructions to riding horses and draft or riding mules.

Wants Position Held
Herman Okre of St. Paul, formerly of La Crosse, who was with Company M in Porto Rico in the Spanish-American war, requested in a letter yesterday to Capt. Fowler that a place in the company be left vacant, in case the company is called.

Punctures 90% Less

Investigations prove that with "Nobby Tread" Tires punctures are 90% less than with the average tire.

The big, thick "nobs" on "Nobby Tread" Tires stand out so far from the shoe that nails, glass, sharp stones, etc., hardly ever reach the shoe.

Study the "nobs," their size, their thickness, and the way they are placed, and you will understand why.

And remember this—you have got to wear out these big, thick, tough "nobs" before you even start to wear out the extra strong tire underneath—that is one reason why experts call "Nobby Treads"

Two Tires in One

The original wear-resisting quality, the quantity of rubber, the methods of construction—all have been rigidly maintained in "Nobby Tread" Tires, and maintained regardless of cost and regardless of price competition.

"Nobby Tread" Tires are the largest selling high-grade anti-skid tires in the world, and they are REAL anti-skid Tires.

VILLA REFUSES TO JOIN WITH HUERTA

Says He Would Not Drive His Army Into War of Extermination to Help Drunken Assassin

JUAREZ, April 25.—General Villa will openly break with General Carranza, supreme chief of the constitutionalists, and join forces with the United States to secure the destruction of Huerta, before he will permit his men to join Carranza in any scheme looking toward a combination with the assassin of Madero.

This, declare the constitutionalists' closest friends here, has been made plain in the last twenty-four hours by Villa himself.

ranza's note, "it was a great mistake. But I am only a subordinate officer and I don't believe it best that I should give out my views—yet."

"The addition of the word 'yet' is believed by observers to indicate a breach between Villa and Carranza if the latter persists in his attitude towards the United States. Villa went on:

"But some seem to think they can embroil Francisco Villa with the United States. Some seem to think I would loot El Paso; that now I am secretly planning war.

"Tell me, who would have to bear the brunt of the fighting in which the United States and constitutionalists engaged? Why, my comrades, the Villistas. Do you suppose I would drive my children into a war of extermination—only Huerta, the miserable, drunken assassin, would profit by their deaths!"

"I not only do not want to allow myself to be dragged into a war with the United States, as an ally of that worthless drunkard and assassin, Huerta, but I will do all I can to prevent such a war." Villa continued. "Personally, I know something about war. I know the terrible suffering it causes and terror it arouses, even when it is merely war on a small scale. Just imagine how terrible it

CHURCH NEWS

No Chaplains On Some Battleships.

Neither chaplains nor welfare secretaries are on board some of the battleships now in Mexican waters, or proceeding there, nor is provision made for the recreation of enlisted men, as in the case of men in the Spanish war, beyond that provided by the Government itself. Things religious in Army and Navy are at the moment of the breaking out of the Mexican differences in a confused and undetermined state. All has waited the action of Congress, and Congress has not acted. The situation causes not a little anxiety to religious leaders of all bodies.

Strong efforts have been under way for months, backed by Catholic and Protestant leaders through Cardinal Gibbons for the former and the Federal Council of Churches for the latter, to secure increase in the number of chaplains to one for every 1,000 enlisted men. Committees have reported favorably, but the bill is not yet passed. Consequently no more than the old number of chaplains, the same number as back in 1845, are available during the present crisis.

Secretary Daniels recommended the naming of welfare secretaries such as Y. M. C. A. provides. His recommendation did not specify Y. M. C. A. men, but it was assumed they were to be such, and the Church representatives stoutly opposed laymen as against ministers. They won out, and ministers alone were recommended by committees of Congress. The Y. M. C. A. has had welfare secretaries on two warships, but none were sent with the fleet going to Mexico, pending decision of the larger matter of regular chaplains. The Y. M. C. A. refuse to discuss the matter, but the officials, especially the Protestant ones, are insistent against the laymen, at least until ministers are provided. If Mexico be invaded, the American enlisted men remain there long, the whole question of their spiritual and recreational welfare is yet to be taken up.

Mabel is just 14. Her parents died recently, leaving her homeless and penniless. She was taken charge of by the West Ham board of guardians. guardians while visiting the infirmary heard her singing. The dingy walls had never echoed such melody before. The guardians immediately sent for her. They were not expert judges of music, but they realized that she possessed a phenomenal voice. After consultation it was decided to send her to the Royal College of Music to be tested. It was found she has a compass of three octaves and a note, and has the makings of an unusual contralto voice.

SERVICE
The sweetest lives are those to duty wed, Whose deeds, both great and small,
Are close knit strands of an unbroken thread,
Where love ennobles all.
The world may sound no trumpet,
Ring no bells;
The book of life the shining record tells.
Thy love shall chant its own beatitudes,
After its own life working. A child's kiss Set on thy singing lips shall make thee glad;
A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong;
Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest.

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, the heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and want other suffering women to know about it."—Mrs. H. E. MABEN, 211 S. Spring, St., Murfreesboro, Tenn.

A DEMURE QUAINNESS MARKS FASHIONS FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Although small fashions follow the lines of grown-up designs in a general way, they have decided touches of their own that are picturesque and pleasing. Comfort is one of the strong points of the little dresses and coats. Could anything be daintier or more childlike than the frock shown in No. 8256? It is developed in a figured cotton crepe and trimmed with bands of voile. The dress is cut with raglan shoulders and a round neck; it buttons down the front and is worn with knickerbockers made of the same material. For a child of 3, this dress requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Cotton crepe averages 38 inches in width and may be purchased from 75 cents a yard and up.

DEFENDS FAIR BOARD

MADISON, Wis., April 25.—Following the publication of an attack on the state board of agriculture in a local newspaper today, Secretary J. C. MacKenzie pointed out that the appropriation for this board were but $15,000 last year.

"The statement that the maintenance of the fair board costs $255,000 is absolutely false. The legislature appropriated $255,000 for new buildings at the fair grounds on the condition that Milwaukee county give us some land. This it refused to do and this wiped out the appropriation, so that we are spending nothing for the fair, besides our usual $8,000."

SOCIALISTS PROTEST WAR

CHICAGO, April 25.—A statement protesting against war with Mexico was given out here today by the national executive committee of the socialist party, of which ex-Congress-

The statement declares that just as the constitutionalists believe victory is in sight and that Mexican lands will be restored to the people, "the great American republic, controlled by sinister capitalist interests and without a declaration of war, lands an armed force on Mexican soil."

PURE SOAP

REALLY now, have you ever given any serious thought as to the purity of the soap you use? Have you not simply bought most anything called soap? From my experience in selling soaps for the past thirty years I am convinced that the purity of the soaps we use for toilet—yes, and for household use—has not had enough consideration. It is a well known fact that near every large city are plants known as "fertilizing plants." They obtain from the city all dead horses, dogs, cats and other animals, as well as butchers' refuse of all kinds, from which the fat is stewed and sold to soap makers for "stock." From this "stock," in combination with an alkali, soda or potash, some soaps are made.

Dr. L. D. Buckley, physician for skin diseases at the New York Hospital, says in the Sanitarian: "I believe many skin diseases are originated and others indefinitely kept up by the use of soaps made from impure fats." Erasmus Wilson writes: "If one were in quest of an insidious, slow means of ruining people's skin, he would need to go no further than impure soaps; in these detergent agents we have an unmitigated evil to the health, tone and beauty of the skin." Don't you think 'tis time for you to do some strong thinking about soap?

With these facts in mind, I have put upon the market the CREAM CERATE SOAP. It is pure and wholesome. I am confident it will stand the most rigid test as to purity and medicinal virtue and, what is more to the point, it will stand the test of every day use and continually demonstrate to you its superiority over all its competitors.

The most delicate skin is not irritated by CREAM CERATE SOAP, but softened, cleaned, invigorated, made healthy and beautiful. Now ask yourself "for the sake of a few cents can I afford to ruin my complexion?" CREAM CERATE SOAP is not expensive—20c a cake, 50c a box (3 cakes) for pure wholesome soap is not expensive. We guarantee you satisfaction or your money back.

GLIDDEN TROPHY TO THE WINNER

CHICAGO, April 25.—The final details of the Chicago to Boston non-motor stop run to be held under the direction of the Chicago Automobile club were announced today. The 1,277 mile run will start June 23 and end July 22.

There will be three classifications for competing cars. The first is for stock cars listed at over $1,200, the winner to hold the Glidden trophy for one year; the second for stock cars listed at $1,200 and under, the winner to hold the A. A. A. reliability trophy for one year; and the third class for non-stock cars entered by private owners, the winner to receive the Anderson trophy for one year.

TROUT FISHERS MAKE BIG HAUL

J. C. Turney and party returned this section during the day and ising trip near Melrose. They exhibited eighty fine trout, averaging three-quarters of a pound in weight. A great deal of difficulty was experienced during the trip on account of the bad roads, their automobile having to go through mud up to the running board.

AD A HAS BEEN SAY FIGHT FANS

ST. PAUL, April 25.—Ad Wogast did the boxing game at Hudson no good when he insisted upon a large guarantee to meet Tillman there and then stepped into the ring out of condition or so lazy that he did not give the patrons of the show their money's worth. In either event he was breaking faith with the management which expected him to be in good condition.

Won't be Asked Again
It is certain that Wogast will not be in demand at any future entertainment the Hudson Boxing club may give. Last night he showed flashes of form in only two rounds and even in these he was far from living up to his fame as a ring bearcat. While here Wogast put on the airs of a champion and affected to regard Tillman as a joke; the Minneapolis boy not only outpointed the Cadillac man during the time Wogast was apparently resting but when Wogast did wake up and fight fast, he received as good as he sent. In fact at no time did Wogast show to any advantage over the conqueror of Pat Brown.

Wogast's star is waning and setting rapidly; he seems to be about the only boxer in the country who does not know it.

Joe Roman and Arnold Fawcett Win First and Second Places

Viroqua captured first and second places in the boys' oratorical contest, which was held last evening at the high school. The orations in the rank in which they were placed by the judges are as follows:

1—Emmett's Last Speech—Joe Roman, Viroqua.
2—The Philosophy of the Race Problem—Arnold Fawcett, Viroqua.
3—William McKinley—Cleo Muloch, Sparta.
4—Toll of Industry—William Walker, La Crosse.
5—Race Problem of the South—Orlando Hansen, La Crosse.
6—The Challenge of Crime—Fred Steele, Sparta.

Joe Roman, who took first place, will represent this league in the district contest which will be held in the Normal school soon. If he wins first place there also, he will go to the state contest as the representative of this district.

The girls' declamatory contest, which was held at Sparta last night, also was won by Viroqua. Their representative took first place. Ethel Mabie, one of the girls from the local school, took second with the selection, "The Boy Orator of Zephera City." This is the first time in a number of years that La Crosse has not had a representative in the district contest.

FURNISH CHANCE TO TEST THE LAW

HOMEcoming TO GET FULL $1,000

Committee of the Whole Report for $500 Rejected and Minority Report Goes Through

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID

Voted money to city officials to furnish opportunity for test by city.

Voted $1,000 for Homecoming, Made in La Crosse and Fourth of July celebration.

Provided for expert advice on condition of La Crosse Theater.

Passed an ordinance licensing and regulating dance halls.

Appropriated $100 for G. A. R. and Spanish War veterans' memorial day ceremonies.

Whether or no the payment of money to aldermen for supplies and services to the city is legal will probably be determined by suits brought against the city of La Crosse by those who have money coming.

At last night's session of the council several of the smaller bills were ordered paid by the council. Mayor Orl J. Sorensen, City Clerk E. H. Hoffman and City Comptroller William F. Fries, it was announced by the mayor, will not sign the orders—in spite of the council's O. K.—and the next step will be for the people with money coming to sue.

Torrence Bills Not in

The bills of Alderman William Torrence for iron work and materials furnished at the new pumping station, were not presented.

This morning Attorney A. H. Schubert, who served notice that he would hold the officials responsible for money paid out illegally, said he would take no action until some move is made in the city hall.

The board of trade was voted $1,000 for the Homecoming, Made in La Crosse and Fourth of July celebration. The report of the committee of the whole, favoring a $500 appropriation, was rejected while a minority report, brought in by Alderman Torrence, calling for the $1,000, originally asked for by the board was passed.

Advice on Theater

A resolution by Alderman Smith, calling for expert advice on the condition of the La Crosse Theater was passed. It provides for the hiring of architects.

Plans for the Rose street viaduct, submitted by the Milwaukee railway, were officially approved.

A resolution calling for another policeman for the district south of Cass street, was referred to the committees on police and finance.

Resolutions for new marketing places on the North and South sides were tabled.

Olin J. Oyen was awarded a $50 contract to decorate the mayor's office.

A dispute over the proper time to dedicate the new water works ended when the entire matter was referred to the special water committee.

License Dance Halls

The dance hall ordinance passed its third reading last night. Hereafter licenses will have to be procured for all public dances. Liquor may be sold until midnight but all boys and girls under 18 must leave the hall by 11 o'clock. Dances will not run later than 2 o'clock.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell

The old time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or soft brush with it and draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

IRISH UNIONISTS LAND MANY ARMS

70,000 Rifles and Five Million Rounds of Ammunition Run Into Ulster

AUTHORITIES ENTIRELY FOOLED

Don't Wake Up Until All Wires Are Cut and They Are Too Late to Stop Landing

BELFAST, Ireland, April 25.—Completely outwitting the authorities, the unionists of Ulster today successfully carried out the greatest "gun running" in the history of Ireland and landed 70,000 rifles which have been distributed through out Ulster.

Five million rounds of ammunition were landed at Larne. With this war material at hand, Ulsterites declared they were now ready to resist to the limit the enforcement of home rule.

The rifles and ammunition left Hamburg on the steamship Fanny a month ago and landed successfully last night in three consignments at Larne, Bangor and Donaghadee. Early this morning 100 automobiles were pressed into service and the entire volunteer force of 30,000 men in the Belfast district turned to the task of distributing the arms.

The authorities had believed the gathering of the volunteers was merely a mobilization test and were taken completely by surprise when the automobiles began rushing away. A shipload of 63,000 rifles arrived at Larne at ten o'clock last night. The town had been completely isolated. All wires were cut and the authorities were unable to communicate with Belfast. The Ulster men had established such a heavy guard that the police were helpless.

They may play Sunday games in New York, according to Police Commissioner Woods, if they don't charge admission nor insist on spectators buying programs.

And to think that it took the erstwhile lowly Cardinals to stop Pittsburgh's winning streak at seven.

Pittsburgh used sixteen players in an effort to stop the Cardinals but those sixteen were as helpless as the sixteen McGraw men used to stop the slaughtering Phillies.

Cincinnati luck has started. Ames held Chicago to three hits but lost 2 to 1.

Mr. Phillips had Stomach Trouble for More than Five Years.

Mr. W. R. Phillips, Jr., 139 Moreland Ave., Atlanta, Georgia, writes: "I had the catarrh and stomach trouble for more than five years, and I faithfully tried all the medicines I saw advertised, and found they all failed to cure me. I then heard of Peruna. I purchased six bottles, and after their use I soon discovered that I was well, safe and sound. I now weigh two hundred and ten pounds, and have never been sick since I took Peruna. It sure is the best medicine for colds, stomach trouble and catarrh that I ever heard of."

Our files abound with testimonials of people who have been the victims of stomach trouble. Peruna seems to be peculiarly adapted to these cases. In no class of human ailments are our testimonials more enthusiastic and numerous than in cases of stomach ailments. Some of these are slight, giving rise to ordinary indigestion. Others are serious, reducing the patient to almost a skeleton. Peruna, because of its tonic laxative qualities, seems to be specifically adapted to catarrh of the stomach and similar ailments.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

COFFEY LICKS FLYNN

NEW YORK, April 25.—Exit forever from the white hope class, one Fireman Jim Flynn. The fireman last night was a human punching bag for Dublin Jim Coffey, who landed a knockout in the fourth round of their go at Billy Gibson's Stadium Athletic club. Flynn was knocked out in the first round but the bell saved him.

Silly sympathy seems easier than the other forms of foolishness.

1,000 Miles Farther

Act immediately if your tire is cut, snagged or worn.

A little Goodyear Quick-Repair Gum, a Tire Plaster or Protection Patch may mean the difference between an utterly ruined tire and six months' longer service.

Better carry some of these with you. They're worth their weight in gold if you're stalled in the country, miles from a garage or repair station.

If the foundation of your house were sagging you'd strengthen it instantly. Think of your tires in the same way. They're the foundation of your car.

Don't wait for that cut or mud bolt to spread. Fill it now with Goodyear Quick-Repair Gum. Lace on a Protection Patch. It's a good way to make old tires do their full duty—to get sometimes 1,000 miles or more out of a tire you'd otherwise discard in a week. We're here to make tires last longer, as well as to sell new ones. Come in and ask us how. It's part of our service. No charge for advice or suggestions.

NO GAME—RAIN

The game between the high school faculty and the Wendell Phillips Debating society which was to have taken place yesterday evening, was called on account of rain. The game will be played off Monday evening if the weather permits.

If there is money in a letter, the recipient isn't finicky about the style of stationery used.

A household necessity is one that no family can afford to be without—unless it has one.
